Cheering for Self James S. Vass Jr, James Vass Jr, 2003-05-13 This book is a study of UW men's basketball fans during the 2001-2002 season and explores their proclivity to cheering for self during basketball events. The term basketball event is used rather than basketball game to make clear that everything connected to and seen, heard or experienced before, during and after a basketball game is included. The actual game itself is only part of the basketball event. An undercurrent runs throughout this participant observation mini-ethnography dealing with access and the relative quality of that access to basketball events being affected by one's age, class, race and gender. The prominent role of advertising in shaping basketball events and helping to construct fans as consumers of products both commercial and institutional during the process of cheering for self is central to this idea. Cheering for self is the activity engaged in by individual fans after they find things to identify or connect with through personal investment. Fans cheer for self indirectly. Fans cheer for the team that they identify with. Through the process of cheering for self while attending the basketball event, people are taught how to become fans, to consume a UW product, the basketball event and to consume advertisers' products. People have a tendency to spend their entire life trying to impress others.

52-week Basketball Training Chip Sigmon, 2003 Designed for both male and female players, this title presents daily workouts for optimal training throughout the year so that players can withstand the rigors of the sport. Explanations and detailed illustrations provide clear instruction on how to perform each of the 192 drills and exercises.

The Washington Post Index, 1999

Navy Football: Return to Glory T.C. Cameron, 2017 This book charts the story of Navy football and steers readers through the reemergence of an iconic program representing our nation's finest. Navy football holds a unique place in college athletics as one of the oldest and most prestigious programs the game has ever known. During the 1950s and 1960s, the Midshipmen were nationally recognized by the major bowl games they played and Heisman Trophy winning players Joe Bellino and Roger Staubach. Although the program struggled mightily to maintain relevance in subsequent years, Athletic Director Chet Gladchuk kick-started the renaissance of Navy football by hiring Coach Paul Johnson in 2001. The team's current coach, Ken Niumatalolo, once fired by the academy in the dining room of a McDonald's in 1998, returned to become the winningest coach in school history. Cameron charts the story of Navy football and steers readers through the reemergence of an iconic program representing our nation's finest.
