In recent years, the average users tend to replace their traditional mobile phones, PDAs, and Palms with smartphones. These devices have become a pervasive part of everyday life. Dealing with huge amounts of data, the mobile device's and application's demand for certain security standards cannot be underestimated. As mentioned before, recent analyzes did not specifically ask what the user expects from a smartphone. An international web-based online survey was designed and performed to measure and analyze users' behaviour when using smartphones, with the aim of finding out what they want and expect from a smartphone. The main goals were to identify user needs in the context of smartphones, to analyze their knowledge and acquisition to security aspects, and to get significant data about the user's behaviour. The main findings of the survey are that on the one hand, most of the users want a smartphone to provide classic mobile phone features, such as performing phone calls, writing messages, or storing contacts. On the other hand, they want a smartphone to provide mobile internet access, navigation features, multimedia aspects, a comfortable usability, and a good look. PC World, 2009 Flash
