Yet many children struggle to become proficient writers. Teaching and Assessing Writing in the Primary School provides a comprehensive guide to the theory, practice and pedagogical research behind teaching children to write. Readers will benefit from building their knowledge of the theory and research behind learning how to write successfully while discovering how they may apply this effectively to their classroom practice. Firmly grounded in the theory of writing and with clear links to practical application, chapters explore Effective pedagogies for teaching children aged 4-12 how to write. The planned and received curriculum for writing including a whole school approach. Formative and summative assessment of writing in the classroom. Designing and organising a Writing Workshop for pupils. Practical implementation of mini lessons to support writing. Supporting the needs of diverse writers within our schools. Young People and the Aesthetics of Health Promotion Kerry Montero, Peter Kelly, 2016-03-10 Health promotion with young people has largely been framed by theories of behaviour change to target unsafe, unhealthy and/or risky behaviours. These theories and models seek to encourage the development in young people of reasoned, rational and risk-aware personal strategies. This book presents an innovative and critical perspective on young people and health promotion. It explores the limits and possibilities of traditional health behaviour change models with their focus on reason, risk and rationality by examining the embodied dimensions of meaning making in health promotion programs. Drawing on an array of critical social theories and approaches to knowledge production, the authors identify and engage the aesthetic and affective dimensions of young people's engagement with issues such as road safety, sexualities, alcohol and drug use, and physical and mental health and well-being. The book will appeal to researchers and practitioners in the fields of health promotion and health education, public health education, the sociology of health and illness, youth studies and youth work.

Teaching Writing Tessa Daffern, Noella M Mackenzie,2020-07-25 In the 21st century writing is more important than at any other time in human history Yet much of the emphasis in schooling has been on reading and after the early years writing skills have been given less attention Internationally too many children are leaving school without the writing skills they need to succeed in life The evidence indicates that students rarely develop proficiency as writers without effective teacher instruction Teaching Writing offers a comprehensive approach for the middle years of schooling when the groundwork should be laid for the demanding writing tasks of senior school and the workplace Teaching Writing outlines evidence based principles of writing instruction for upper primary students and young adolescents It presents strategies that are ready for adoption or adaptation and exemplars to assist with designing and implementing writing lessons across the middle years of school It addresses writing from a multimodal perspective while also highlighting the importance of teaching linguistic aspects of text design such as sentence structure vocabulary and spelling as foundations for meaning making Contributors argue that students need to continue to develop their skills in both handwriting and keyboarding Examples of the teaching of writing across disciplines are presented through a range of vignettes Strategies for assessing student writing and for supporting students with diverse needs are also explored With contributions from leading literacy educators Teaching Writing is an invaluable resource for primary secondary and pre service teachers
