Indicators and Strategies for Prevention and Management of Physical and Cognitive Frailty in Aging Population

Xin Jiang,Jing Liao,Junhong Zhou,Yurun Cai,2023-11-17 Frailty is a condition phenotype of decreased functional capacities across multiple bio physiological indicators as a person ages Older adults in many instances can suffer from frailty syndromes and their consequence of poor health including e g increased risk of falls disabled mobility etc The appropriate characterization of frailty and its related physical and mental components is thus of great importance to help predict the risk of frailty syndromes and to optimize management and rehabilitation programs The ultimate goals is to minimize the burden of frailty in older adults The frailty syndromes are generally measured by using different established protocols such as Fried s Frailty Criteria and conceptualized by simply accumulating the measured syndromes Recent research works have shown that frailty not only arises from diminished physical function but also from multiple other types of functional decline such as cognitive impairment and abnormalities in vascular system e g hypertension Moreover these conditions are not distinct or isolated from each other but closely interact and interconnected These interactions may play critical roles in the development of frailty Therefore it is worthwhile to re conceptualize frailty by implementing advanced technologies to measure the characteristics of functions that are pertaining to frailty and to explore the inter relationships between them Thus we can discover novel indicators to predict frailty and can develop novel strategies to optimize the management and rehabilitation of frailty The overall goal of this research topic is to share and discuss recent achievements on understanding the pathology of frailty and its related bio physiological characteristics to identify novel indicators that can help predict the incidence of frailty and to help optimize strategies for the prevention and management of frailty in aging population      Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine ,1998-05      Kiplinger's Personal Finance ,1996      International Directory of Company Histories
