research body concerned with monolingual DAT discourses has seen significant growth. The findings from monolingual studies and institutional settings highlight the importance of code choice for a person's sense of autonomy especially against the background of changing communicational abilities. Adding a new perspective this book investigates how ten Puerto Rican speakers living with varying stages of DAT draw on their bilingual resources to accomplish verbal interaction in informal settings with their primary care partners. Drawing on narrative interviews conducted in Orlando Florida this multi case study investigates situated language choices and code switches by applying the ethno social approach i.e. combining features of conversation analysis and ethnography of communication. The author sheds light both on the question of how people living with DAT engage in conversations and which strategies they employ in their languages English and Spanish to reach their communicative goals. Specifically by analyzing the role of code choice and code switching in a qualitative manner two main functional categories emerge discourse related and participant related code switching. Bilingual competencies remain even among participants living with severe DAT symptoms as evident in retained interactional sequences such as salutations. Persons living with DAT competently negotiate code either through exploratory code switching or metalinguistic commentary emphasizing the need for conversational partners to be sensitive to the communicative needs in both languages of speakers living with DAT. This book will be of interest to students and researchers working on dementia discourses health communication multilingualism and ageing as well as Bilingual Multilingual families or individuals living with dementia.
