Media Fortunes Changing Times Asean States In Transition:

Media Fortunes, Changing Times Russell Hiang-Khng Heng, 2003-08-01 This book examines how media have brought about or paced dramatic political events in Southeast Asia over the last two decades. It highlights a situation where media dynamics are no longer a simple formula of state control versus media resistance. The state can propel its own media liberalizing programme, civil society can be an enemy of press freedom, market forces and cultural mindsets are sometimes more potent agents of change than state appointed media custodians. Practitioners, scholars and activists have come together in this volume to provide a diversity of narratives on subjects as varied as powerful politicians and marginalized transsexuals.

Encyclopedia of Social Movement Media John D. H. Downing, John Derek Hall Downing, 2011 The entries are designed to be relatively brief with clear, accessible and current information.

Language, Nation and Development in Southeast Asia

Lee Hock Guan, 2003-08-01 Language policies in Southeast Asia have been shaped by the process of nation building on the one hand and by political and economic considerations on the other. The early years of nation building in Southeast Asia generated intensive language conflicts precisely because state policies privileged the idea of a monolingual nation and thus endeavoured to co-opt or even do away with troublesome ethnic identities. In recent years language policies are increasingly influenced by pragmatic considerations especially globalization and the awareness of a linkage between language and economic development such that Southeast Asian states in varying degrees have become less insistent on promoting monolingual nationalism. This book evaluates the successes and drawbacks of language policies in Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, the Philippines, Thailand, Vietnam and Myanmar, especially the ways in which these policies have often been resisted or contested. It is an invaluable primer on this linguistically complex region and a resource for scholars, policy makers, civil society activists and NGOs in various parts of the world facing equally challenging ethnic language issues.

Rules,

Norms and NGO Advocacy Strategies Yumiko Yasuda, 2015-09-16 There is much controversy over the development of new dams for hydropower where concerns for environmental protection and the livelihoods of local people may conflict with the goals of economic development. This book analyses the opportunities and barriers that NGOs and civil society actors face when conducting advocacy campaigns against such developments. Through a comparison of two NGO coalitions in Cambodia and Vietnam advocating against the Xayaburi hydropower dam on the Mekong River the book explores the intricate interactions of formal and informal rules and norms and how they influence advocacy strategies. A framework for analysis is proposed which serves as a tool for analysis by civil society actors. The author generates fresh insights into the way in which opportunities and barriers are created for NGOs to influence state centric decision making processes. The book also discusses Mekong riparian states' negotiation process over the Xayaburi hydropower dam in detail providing an analysis of the Mekong River's governance under the 1995 Mekong Agreement. The book concludes by suggesting ways to improve the engagement of civil society actors in the governance of transboundary rivers and development projects.

Political Communication in Asia Lars Willnat,Annette Aw,2009-03-23 This edited volume provides a critical review of political communication research conducted in Asia over the past twenty years Each chapter focuses on studies published in a specific Asian country selected according to the level of contribution made to the field of political communication in Asia Covering China Hong Kong Taiwan South Korea Japan Singapore Malaysia Indonesia and India the book s primary objective is to review the unique theoretical accomplishments made by Asian communication scholars thus contributing to a better awareness and understanding of political communication research in Asia The contributors are well respected Asian media scholars writing on political communication in their countries of origin Each author reviews studies conducted and published in his her native country and language s This book provides a first review of these studies most of which have never been published in English and makes them available to international scholars The contributors discuss each country s political background and address the findings and conclusions of the political communication studies conducted in their respective countries during the past two decades The chapters focus on insights that have been made by adapting Western media theories to the unique social cultural or political contexts that exist in each country The authors also point out possible gaps in the current research within their respective countries and to make recommendations for future studies

New Media Political Engagement And Participation in Malaysia Sara Chinnasamy,2017-09-28 This book analyses the exponential growth of independent news portal INPs in Malaysia and discusses the extent of impacts generated from these portals in Malaysian electoral conduct especially during Malaysia s 12th and 13th general elections The mainstream media in Malaysia has for decades been controlled by strict laws such as the Printing Presses and Publications Act PPPA and the Sedition Act as well as self censorship by print and broadcast journalists and editors The rise of INP in Malaysia has challenged this government stranglehold as well as making information available much faster than the mainstream media The undeniable speed of the news posted on INP which often come with interactive contents are seen to have caused a remarkable increment on public's options with regards to expressing their political views. Some of the INPs have also impressively taken up a notch by providing live streaming videos or interesting online visual news which indirectly unifies various sectors of pressure groups in providing options of circulating and disseminating information to the public. The interviews conducted for this book provide deeper insights from those producing news and at the same time provide a specific and thorough observation on political events including representatives of the Malaysian middle class, Opposition parties, youth and university students, NGOs and civil society movements. Chinnasamy investigates key questions relating to this shift in relation to media preference concerning on the mainstream and political landscape in Malaysia. Did the INP evolve new democratic movement in the country or induce a change in the way the government retains its power by increasing people's active engagement in political participation? Did any revolution in government managed media landscape occur drastically? If so, how did they accomplish these changes? This book will fill the gap of existing research on how far have the INP empowered themselves to be the third force in fighting democratic movement in the country and how the ruling government continues seeing it as a contention as foreseen by many experts in the industry.

Asian Journal of Social Science, 2005 Media Asia, 2006 Annual Report Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, 2002 The 2nd ASEAN Reader Sharon Siddique, Sree Kumar, 2003

The Second ASEAN Reader is a sequel to the first ASEAN Reader published by ISEAS in 1992. Some of the classic readings from the original ASEAN Reader have been incorporated into this new compilation but the majority of the readings cover the events from 1993 to 2003. During this decade ASEAN as an organization was revamped and its membership increased from six to ten. ASEAN has had to carve a niche in the proliferation of regional associations and bilateral relationships which mark the accelerating era of globalization. The economic pivot point for the decade was certainly the 1997 Asian crisis while the war on terrorism has had a ripple effect on intra ASEAN co-operation. ASEAN's resilience and ability to adapt has allowed the organization to navigate on a steady course into the 21st century.

The SAGE Handbook of Political Advertising Lynda Lee Kaid, Christina Holtz-Bacha, 2006-06-14

The SAGE Handbook of Political Advertising provides a comprehensive view of the role political advertising plays in democracies around the world. Editors Lynda Lee Kaid and Christina Holtz Bacha along with an international group of contributors examine the differences as well as the similarities of political advertising in established and evolving democratic governments. Key Features: Offers an international perspective. This Handbook examines the political television advertising process that has evolved in democracies around the world including countries in Asia, Europe, Australia, Africa, Latin America and North America. In addition a comparative overview addresses the effects of political advertising on the voters and the systems of which it is a part. Provides comprehensive coverage. For each country presented an analysis is given of its political advertising history, its cultural implications, the political and regulatory systems related to political advertising, the effects of media system structures and the effects of new technologies. Includes examples from recent elections. The role specific candidate or party controlled television plays in a specific region s electoral process is examined Original research on recent elections confirms the expanding significance of this form of political communication This is an excellent resource for media professionals and practicing journalists as well as a welcome addition to any academic library It can also be used as a textbook for advanced undergraduate and graduate courses on Political Advertising in the fields of Political Science
