There has always been a romance around ocean liners but this book looks behind the romance to show the reality of travelling the oceans of the world. The book starts with the first scheduled transatlantic crossings in the age of sail then moves on through the development of the steamers and ends in the present day when ocean liners have given way to airliners. All aspects of the subject are discussed. The experience of travelling by sea varied enormously from the luxury of first class travel to the often brutal conditions endured by immigrants. Ship design developed in the race between competing companies to provide the most powerful ships. But while technology came into the fundamental design when it came to decor for many of the great liners the interiors looked back with a romanticised view of the past. It is not always realised that a great liner might have almost as many crew as passengers and this looks at all those who kept the ships running from the black gang in the engine room to the captain on the bridge. The result is a rounded view of what it meant to travel on some of the greatest ships ever built.

Ocean Liners Bill Miller, 1990-04 Ontstaan en ontwikkeling van de transatlantische lijndiensten met een beschrijving van enkele beroemde schepen Ocean Liners Peter Newall, 2018-01-30 A truly comprehensive publication running the gamut from the first Atlantic sail enhanced steamers to today's remaining handful of combi liners. Maritime Matters Before the advent of the jet age ocean liners were the principal means of transport around the globe and carried migrants and business people, soldiers and administrators, families and lone travelers to every corner of the world. Though the ocean liner was born on the North Atlantic it soon spread to all the other oceans and in this new book the author addresses this huge global story. The account begins with Brunel's Great Eastern and the early Cunarders but with the rise in nationalism and the growth in empires in the latter part of the 19th century and the opening of the Suez Canal in 1869 the colonial powers of Spain, France and Germany soon established shipping lines of their own and transpacific routes were opened up by Japanese and American lines. The golden age between the two world wars witnessed huge growth in liner traffic to Africa Australia and New Zealand India and the Far East the French colonies and the Dutch East and West Indies but then though there was a postwar revival the breakup of empires and the arrival of mass air travel brought about the swan song of the liner Employing more than 250 stunning photographs the author describes not just the ships and routes but interweaves the technical and design developments covering engines electric light navigation and safety and accommodation
