Information Technology Security and Risk Management Stephen C. Wingreen, Amelia Samandari, 2024-05-16 Information Technology Security and Risk Management Inductive Cases for Information Security is a compilation of cases that examine recent developments and issues that are relevant to IT security managers risk assessment and management and the broader topic of IT security in the 21st century As the title indicates the cases are written and analyzed inductively which is to say that the authors allowed the cases to speak for themselves and lead where they would rather than approach the cases with presuppositions or assumptions regarding what the case should be about In other words the authors were given broad discretion to interpret a case in the most interesting and relevant manner possible any given case may be about many things depending on the perspective adopted by the reader and many different lessons may be learned The inductive approach of these cases reflects the design philosophy of the advanced IT Security and Risk Management course we teach on the topic here at the University of Canterbury where all discussions begin with the analysis of a specific case of interest and follow the most interesting and salient aspects of the case in evidence In our course the presentation analysis and discussion of a case are followed by a brief lecture to address the conceptual theoretical and scholarly dimensions arising from the case The inductive approach to teaching and learning also comes with a huge advantage the students seem to love it and often express their appreciation for a fresh and engaging approach to learning the sometimes highly technical content of an IT security course As instructors we are also grateful for the break in the typical scripted chalk and talk of a university lecture afforded by the spontaneity of the inductive approach We were motivated to prepare this text because there seems to be no other book of cases dedicated to the topic of IT security and risk management and because of our own success and satisfaction with inductive teaching and learning We believe this book would be useful either for an inductive case based course like our own or as a body of cases to be discussed in a more traditional course with a deductive approach There are abstracts and keywords for each case which would help instructors select cases for discussions on specific topics and PowerPoint slides are available as a guide for discussion about a given case

Fortune Henry Robinson Luce, 1999-03 E-commerce User Experience Jakob Nielsen, 2001 Lien Beyond Greenwash Hamish van der Ven, 2019-03-21 From green frogs and blue angels to white bunnies modern consumers are confronted by a growing array of colorful eco labels on everything from coffee to computers When eco labels are credible they can lead to dramatic change in environmental practices broadly and quickly by leveraging the purchasing power of corporate clients e.g. Walmart and McDonalds to influence global supply chains But the credibility of such labels is highly variable and despite the existence of established practices for eco labeling many labels remain little more than superficial exercises in greenwash How can consumers separate greenwash from genuine attempts to address environmental challenges Beyond Greenwash addresses this question by systematically investigating the credibility of transnational eco labeling organizations across countries and commercial sectors Using an innovative proxy measure for credibility that examines adherence to established best practices Hamish van der Ven proposes a novel theory of rigor and credibility in transnational eco labeling that upends conventional wisdom He argues that the credibility of an eco label does not depend on who creates or manages it whether a government industry association professional standard setter or environmental NGO Rather it depends on which types of businesses use the label More specifically eco labeling organizations that target bigger consumer facing retailers tend to create credible eco labels out of a desire to insulate their clients from critical scrutiny and gain acceptance in new markets This theory challenges the conventional wisdom that only governments or environmental NGOs can create meaningful environmental governance and suggests that who is being governed matters as much if not more than who is doing the governing

Unlocking the Customer Value Chain Thales S. Teixeira, Greg Piechota, 2019-02-19 Based on eight years of research visiting dozens of startups tech companies and incumbents Harvard Business School professor Thales Teixeira shows how and why consumer industries are disrupted and what established companies can do about it while highlighting the specific strategies potential startups use to gain a competitive edge There is a pattern to digital disruption in an industry whether the disruptor is Uber Airbnb Dollar Shave Club Pillpack or one of countless other startups that have stolen large portions of market share from industry leaders often in a matter of a few years As Teixeira makes clear the nature of competition has fundamentally changed Using innovative new business models startups are stealing customers by breaking the links in how consumers discover buy and use products and services By decoupling the customer value chain these startups instead of taking on the Unilevers and Nikes BMW s and Sephoras of the world head on peel away a piece of the consumer purchasing process Birchbox offered women a new way to sample beauty products from a variety of companies from the convenience of their homes without having to visit a store Turo doesn't compete with GM Instead it offers people the benefit of driving without having to own a car themselves Illustrated with vivid indepth and exclusive accounts of both startups and reigning incumbents like Best Buy and Comcast as they struggle to respond Unlocking the Customer Value Chain is an essential guide to demystifying how digital disruption takes place and what companies can do to defend themselves
