The Contextualisation of 21st Century Skills

Esther Care, Mauro Giacomazzi, John Kabutha Mugo, 2024-02-19 This open access book is written for educators and policymakers who seek to empower young people with competencies necessary for fulfilling lives in the 21st century. It reports how a large group of educators from government and civil society organisations together with researchers from universities used their curriculum assessment and social economy expertise to develop contextualised definitions of life skills and values and associated assessment tools. The book also reports on levels of these competencies of over 45 000 adolescents from a household based assessment conducted in Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda. The results describe how these adolescents vary in proficiency by region, age and other factors providing a resource for national education ministries to factor into policy decisions. Given the technical requirements of measuring individuals social emotional and related competencies, how is it possible to capture an adolescent's life skills across varied contexts? The book provides readers with a pragmatic yet technically robust process for undertaking a large scale assessment program designed to inform policy

Developmental Perspectives in Written Language and Literacy Eliane Segers, Paul van den Broek, 2017-12-15 Research on the development of written language and literacy is inherently multidisciplinary. In this book leading researchers studying brain cognition and behavior come together in revealing how children develop written language and literacy, why they may experience difficulties and which interventions may help those who struggle. Each chapter provides an overview of a specific area of expertise focusing on typical and atypical development, providing steps for future research and discussing practical implications of the work. The book covers areas of bilingualism, dyslexia, reading comprehension, learning to read, atypical populations, intervention and new media. Thus the book presents a comprehensive overview of the current state of affairs in this field of research. The various book chapters have been written by researchers who all have collaborated at some point in their careers with Ludo Verhoeven whose research sets the example for the importance of crossing disciplinary borders to research to take the next important steps. The combination of the research in this book sets the stage for future research that connects various fields and hopes to inspire anyone interested in the development of written language and literacy

Handbook of Individual Differences in Reading Peter Afflerbach, 2015-08-11 The central unifying theme of this state of the art contribution to research on literacy is its rethinking and reconceptualization of individual differences in reading. Previous research focused on cognitive components of reading signaled the need for ongoing work to identify relevant individual differences in reading to determine the relationships of individual differences to reading development and to account for interactions among individual differences.
