Language and Meaning Christopher Beedham, 2005-11-08

This book illustrates the structuralist idea that language creates the reality we perceive. The data presented in this volume focus on the problematic issues of the passive construction and irregular strong verbs with examples taken primarily from English with separate subsections on German and Russian. The author presents a new and different analysis of these complex topics which proceeds from the levels of form to meaning rather than the traditional and generative methodologies that follow the opposite path from meaning to form. This book will be of interest to all linguists who have ever confronted the controversial question of the interaction between lexical exceptions and grammatical rules. The scope of this volume is rather broad and it compares and contrasts text grammar versus sentence grammar in an innovative way

Alfred Schutz's Sociological Aspect of Literature Lester Embree, 1997-12-31 The maintext in the present volume has been constructed out of passages found scattered about in thirty five years of Alfred Schutz's writings and it has been constructed by following a page of notes for a lecture that he gave in 1955 under the title Sociological Aspect of Literature. The result can be considered the substance of Schutz's contribution to the theory of literature. More detail about how this construction has been performed is offered in the Editor's Introduction. The complementary essays are by scholars from Germany Japan and the United States from several generations and from the disciplines of anthropology philosophy and sociology. These researchers were invited to reflect in their own perspectives on the main text and in relation to matters referred to within and beyond it. Draft versions of most of these complementary essays were presented for critical discussion in a research symposium held at the Graduate Faculty of Political and Social Science of the New School for Social Research on April 28 29 1995 under the sponsorship of The Center for

Morris, Christopher G. Pryor, Minet Schindelhutte, 2012 Do entrepreneurs create ventures or do venture experiences create entrepreneurs The authors of Entrepreneurship as Experience propose that the answer is both This important volume examines how individuals experience the creation of a venture as it happens and how that experience determines the types of entrepreneur and venture that ultimately emerge In essence entrepreneurship is an experience consisting of large numbers of key events such as a first sale hiring a first employee losing a big account events that are processed and made sense of by the entrepreneur They produce cognitive emotional and physiological responses which impact decision making and behavior The result is an experience that is purposive diverse uncertain ambiguous and transformative and unique to each individual Here the authors argue that as experience unfolds both entrepreneur and venture are being constructed and emerge in unique forms This experiential view introduces an entirely new lens through which entrepreneurship can be examined Entrepreneurship as Experience comprises chapters dedicated to sociological anthropological and psychological research related to human experiencing the volume presents a new frame for understanding the role of emotions and feelings in venture creation and lays out a conceptual framework for understanding how real time experiencing informs the entrepreneurial process New insights are provided regarding how the entrepreneurial mindset and an entrepreneurial identity are formed and why entrepreneurs take on certain traits and develop certain competencies Further the authors put forth new approaches to conducting research on the entrepreneurial experience Students advanced as well as undergraduate and scholars of entrepreneurship innovation strategy and management will find themselves turning often to the ideas and research presented here The Principles of Pleading, Practice and Procedure in Civil Actions in the High Court of Justice William Blake Odgers, Great Britain.
