Medical Care Of The Cancer Patient:

Medical Care of Cancer Patients Sai-Ching Jim Yeung, Carmen P. Escalante, Robert F. Gagel, 2009 Recent therapeutic advances in cancer treatment indicate that cancer is becoming a chronic disease rather than a killer This comprehensive text is the first to define and address the broad spectrum of acute and chronic internal medicine disorders that occur in cancer patients and cancer survivors as side effects of the disease itself or of the treatment regimens The authors cover nononcologic aspects of internal medicine such as anorexia obesity bone loss diabetes depression pain fatigue congestive heart failure skin disorders and pneumonia This book is conceived as a companion to standard internal medicine and oncology texts a comprehensive reference resource for internists caring for cancer patients and oncologists in practice The text is extensively indexed for easy access and retrieval of information

Cancer Care for the Whole Patient Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on Psychosocial Services to Cancer Patients/Families in a Community Setting, 2008-03-19 Cancer care today often provides state of the science biomedical treatment but fails to address the psychological and social psychosocial problems associated with the illness This failure can compromise the effectiveness of health care and thereby adversely affect the health of cancer patients Psychological and social problems created or exacerbated by cancer including depression and other emotional problems lack of information or skills needed to manage the illness lack of transportation or other resources and disruptions in work school and family life cause additional suffering weaken adherence to prescribed treatments and threaten patients return to health Today it is not possible to deliver high quality cancer care without using existing approaches tools and resources to address patients psychosocial health needs All patients with cancer and their families should expect and receive cancer care that ensures the provision of appropriate psychosocial health services Cancer Care for the Whole Patient recommends actions that oncology providers health policy makers educators health insurers health planners researchers and research sponsors and consumer advocates should undertake to ensure that this standard is met
