

Viral suppression is the goal of HIV medical care. There are four key steps:

Step 1: HIV testing and diagnosis.

- ◊ About 14% of people living with HIV have never been diagnosed.
- ◊ Everyone needs to be tested to find out if they have HIV so they can start getting the medical care needed for viral suppression and reduce their risk of transmitting the virus to others.

Step 2: Getting and keeping people living with HIV in medical care.

- ◊ Only 40% of people living with HIV have received regular HIV medical care.
- ◊ Once in medical care, people can get HIV medicines and prevention services to help them stay healthy and protect their partners.
- ◊ Doctors, nurses, and other health care providers can use strategies, such as appointment reminders, to help patients stay in care.

Step 3: Prescribing HIV medicines.

- ◊ Only 37% of people living with HIV are prescribed HIV medicines. Too many have not been diagnosed or are not in HIV medical care.
- ◊ However, of patients in HIV medical care, 92% are prescribed HIV medicines.
- ◊ Doctors, nurses, and other health care providers should prescribe HIV medicines to everyone with HIV to lower the amount of virus in the body.

Step 4: Helping patients achieve viral suppression.

- ◊ Only 30% of all people living with HIV have achieved viral suppression. Too many have not been diagnosed, are not in medical care, or are not taking HIV medicines.
- ◊ However, of patients in HIV medical care, 76% achieve viral suppression.
- ◊ Doctors, nurses, and other health care providers play an important role in helping their patients start and stay on HIV medicines.
