APPROXIMATE DRAFT PRACTICES

...by introducing the Learning Target questions to students. What is it that the government does? How do I do myself measurements of the time? Why place them governments, and what are the governments do?

Answer: For the People.

...ally. Now let's see what we've learned about the words. Remember a word that is placed inside a card from the pile. Read the card. Does the student say it correctly? If they think it describes something that we learned today about government, and it matches one of the words that we learned about, then we'll mark it as correct. If they don't describe what we've learned about government, then the cards that describe government go to the another stack. Does the student record the information on their Government Web notebook? Discard the cards that do not describe government.
