Software Engineering Approaches for Offshore and Outsourced Development Olly Gotel, Mathai Joseph, Bertrand Meyer, 2009-07-01 SEAFOOD 2009 Enabling Global Partnerships to Deliver on Business Needs Companies have been outsourcing areas of software development work for many years either because of the engineering challenges or because the outsourced aspect is not central to their core business A profound transformation has been affecting this model over recent years a massive transfer of development activities from the USA and Europe to a skilled labor force in service providing countries This transformation has been driven by the demands of a global business climate seeking to increase the value delivery of IT investment However the ability to realize this value can prove problematic in practice Of particular concern are the hidden costs of globally distributed models of working such as understanding and communicating the true business needs across organizational and cultural boundaries To address such issues offshore outsourcing requires different support from inhouse development and this means adapting familiar techniques processes and tools to this setting as well as perhaps creating innovative new ones Coupled with this industry transformation there is hence a pressing need to re-examine those software engineering approaches that either facilitate or impede this model of working With an inevitable focus on the economy in 2009 business decisions regarding the sourcing of software development projects will come under close scrutiny It will become increasingly critical to design global partnerships that both clarify costs and enable delivery on business needs

Software Engineering Approaches for Offshore and Outsourced Development Kay Berkling, Mathai Joseph, Bertrand Meyer, Martin Nordio, 2009-05-22 Major economic upheavals can have the sort of effect that Schumpeter foresaw 60 years ago as creative destruction In science and technology equivalent upheavals result from either scientific revolutions as observed by Kuhn or the introduction of what Christensen calls disruptive technologies And in software engineering there has been no technology more disruptive than outsourcing That it should so quickly reach maturity and an unparalleled scale is truly remarkable that it should now be called to demonstrate its sustainability in the current financial turmoil is the challenge that will prove whether and how it will endure Early signs under even the bleak market conditions of the last 12 months are that it will not only survive it will firmly establish its role across the world of business Outsourcing throws into sharp focus the entire software engineering life cycle Topics as diverse as requirements analysis concurrency and model checking need to find a composite working partnership in software engineering practice This conclusion arises from need not dogma and the solutions required are those that will have the right effect on the associated activities in the world of the application e.g. reducing the time for a transaction or making the results of a complex analysis available in real time While the business of outsourcing continues to be studied the engineering innovations that make it compelling are constantly changing It is in this milieu that this series of conferences has placed itself
