diffusion but the speed of sharing the information is similar across treatment groups and by different saturation rates We conclude that targeted and simple information campaigns can help supplement the information needs of farmers in a cost effective manner independently of their participation in farmer groups or extension programs Energy Innovation for the Twenty-First Century Jim Skea, Renée van Diemen, Matthew Hannon, Evangelos Gazis, Aidan Rhodes, 2019 This book addresses the question how effective are countries in promoting the innovation needed to facilitate an energy transition At the heart of the book is a set of empirical case studies covering supply and demand side technologies at different levels of maturity in a variety of countries The case studies are set within an analytical framework encompassing the functions of technological innovation systems and innovation metrics The book concludes with lessons and recommendations for effective policy intervention

Digital Remote Patient Monitoring in Neurodegenerative Diseases Graham Jones, Amit Khanna, Diane Stephenson, 2026-01-06 The development of sensitive miniature electronic digital health sensors has stimulated growth of a multi billion dollar consumer products for the health tech industry Devices like wrist and finger worn wearables smartphones specialized peripherals and home based IoMT devices are capable of utilizing these technologies coupled with associated algorithms to accurately measure vital signs cognitive functions and fine motor movements This now opens the opportunity for measuring subtle changes in chronic degenerative diseases using a suite of digital tools with the potential to detect a change within a reasonable time during the early course of the disease These slowly progressing conditions manifest clinical symptoms and functional impairment over a period of several years Thus deploying technologies to facilitate early diagnosis characterization and monitoring disease progression longitudinally might enable informed decisions on treatment care and early interventions They can also provide key data to underscore the efficacy of therapeutics designed to prevent delay or modify the course of the disease addressing an unmet need in this area and generating data of relevance to the regulatory authorities and Payors The need for use of such technologies is becoming acute as the rising prevalence of diseases such as Alzheimer's Parkinson's and multiple sclerosis represent an enormous societal economic and healthcare burden globally In this Research Topic we will highlight recent developments in remote patient monitoring derived from experts in the academy pharmaceutical industry government laboratories and research foundations Examples range from routine measurements of blood pressure heart rate variability and sleep cycles to more complex interrogation of acoustic oculomotor and ballistographic signals which can provide insight to disease states to enable early intervention Additionally specialized digital programs can give insight to cognitive state and function If captured longitudinally they can provide informative data on disease progression and classification A benefit of digital monitoring in the early stages of disease lies in the potential to explore disease preventing approaches during limited time periods of a clinical study and offer long term monitoring via registries and electronic health records Based on the considerable promise of these digital technologies we are delighted to showcase cutting edge advances and emerging directions in the field through this exciting collection which we cordially welcome authors to consider submitting to Potential topics could include but are not restricted to the following subject areas Use of digital technologies to facilitate early diagnosis characterization and monitoring of neurodegenerative disease Data driven approaches to interrogate the efficacy of symptomatic and disease modifying therapies Development of standards and metrics to guide registration validation and regulatory approaches Future remote monitoring environments from clinical studies to IoMT at home Ethical considerations around the capture storage transmission and ownership of patient captured data Clinical and real world evaluation of sensors and sensing technologies in neurodegenerative disease Progress in human factor engineering in the design of patient friendly remote monitoring devices Passive versus active monitoring the impact of patient friction burden on longitudinal data capture Strategies to align and translate patient voice into clinical meaningfulness measures JIMD Reports - Case and Research Reports, 2012/3 SSIEM, 2012-05-10 JIMD Reports publishes case and short research reports in the area of inherited metabolic disorders Case reports highlight some unusual or previously unrecorded feature relevant to the disorder or serve as an important reminder of clinical or biochemical features of a Mendelian disorder Artificial intelligence in predicting, determining and controlling cell phenotype or tissue function in inflammatory diseases Melanie L. Hart, Bernd Rolauffs, Ryuji Kato, 2024-05-10 The last decade has seen rapid development in the use of computational techniques at bulk tissue and single cell level However our knowledge remains limited in this regard and further progress is needed especially in inflammatory and degenerative diseases Controlling modeling or predicting cellular phenotype in this context using artificial intelligence AI will greatly improve the available in vitro in situ in vivo and in silico methods but also aid in the understanding of disease pathology and therapeutic efficiency These methods not only have ramifications for our pathophysiological understanding of tissue function but are also important for advancing AI methods in cell culture tissue explants or in vivo for immunologically relevant characteristics of single cells cell populations and tissues to predict cell or tissue function

The New York Times Index, 2008 Who Knew? Lynn H. Vogel, 2018-11-08 Despite all the writing and the research America's health care industry continues to fail at providing health care that is accessible and affordable with measurable quality The fundamental reason we have failed is that health care is not only a complex business but the most complex in our economy Other industries are disrupted some readily adapt to new markets some leverage information technology and innovative and cost saving ways But to date health care has resisted The customary approaches tried in other industries seem not to apply to health care Why Why is the health care industry so politically divisive Why is the quality of health care services so difficult to measure Why do patients often fail to understand their own health care Why are security and privacy such unique challenges in health care Why is the payment process for health care services so complicated and challenging This book seeks to answer these questions This book written by a well known industry insider with 35 years working at senior levels in hospital operations and information technology discusses nine major factors that in combination contribute to health care's complexity The author concludes that until we understand why health is so complex we will continue to see books complaining about the poor state of health care in the U S and proposals for change that are generally unsuccessful and innovative technology products that fail to deliver expected results
