Mcsweeney's Issue 30 McSweeney's Quarterly Concern:

McSweeney's Issue 30 Dave Eggers, 2009. Featuring new work by Wells Tower, Michael Cera and Etgar Keret along with as always a bevy of lesser known but nonetheless excellent writers investigating everything from mental hospitals to sentient mists and possibly some kind of poster. Issue 30 warrants every ounce of attention and industry you'll give it even if you are very important and your time is valuable even if the fate of nations rests on your weary shoulders. You should still read Issue 30.

Teaching Comics and Graphic Narratives Lan Dong, 2014-01-10. The essays in this collection discuss how comics and graphic narratives can be useful primary texts and learning tools in college and university classes across different disciplines. There are six sections: American Studies, Ethnic Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, Cultural Studies, Genre Studies, and Composition, Rhetoric, and Communication. With a combination of practical and theoretical investigations, the book brings together discussions among teacher scholars to advance the scholarship on teaching comics and graphic narratives and provides scholars with useful references, critical approaches, and particular case studies.

McSweeney's Dave Eggers, 2004. Literature in Contemporary Media Culture Sarah J. Paulson, Anders Skare Malvik, 2016-02-03. How does contemporary literature respond to the digitalized media culture in which it takes part? And how do we study literature in order to shed light on these responses? Under the subsections Technology, Subjectivity and Aesthetics, Literature in Contemporary Media Culture sets out to answer these questions. The book shows how literature over the last decade has charted the impact of new technologies on human conduct. It explores how changes in literary production, distribution and consumption can be correlated to changes in social practices more generally. And it examines how and if contemporary media culture affects our understanding of literary aesthetics. Addressing Scandinavian and Anglo-American poetry and fiction produced around the beginning of the present century, Literature in Contemporary Media Culture highlights both well-known and unfamiliar literary texts. It offers cross-disciplinary methodological tools and reading strategies for studying literary phenomena such as intermedial aesthetics, the autobiographical novel, conceptual literature and digital poetry, all of which are prevalent across national borders at the outset of the twenty-first century. This book will be of interest to students and established scholars in the fields of literature, film and media studies and visual studies, as well as to members of the general reading public.

American Literature in Transition, 2000-2010 Rachel Greenwald Smith, 2017-12-28 American Literature in Transition 2000-2010 illuminates the dynamic transformations that occurred in American literary culture during the first decade of the twenty-first century. The volume is the first major critical collection to address the literature of the 2000s a decade that saw dramatic changes in digital technology, economics, world affairs, and environmental awareness. Beginning with an introduction that takes stock of the period's major historical, cultural, and literary movements, the volume features accessible essays on a wide range of topics including genre fiction, the treatment of social networking in literature, climate change fiction, the ascendancy of Amazon and online booksellers, 9/11 literature, finance and literature, and the rise of prestige television. Mapping the literary culture of a decade of promise and threat, American Literature in Transition 2000-2010 provides an invaluable resource on twenty-first century American literature for general readers, students, and scholars alike.
