Media Mobilization And Human Rights Mediating Suffering:

Media, Mobilization, and Human Rights Tristan Anne Borer, 2012-11-08 What impact do mass media portrayals of atrocities have on activism Why do these news stories sometimes mobilize people while at other times they are met with indifference Do different forms of media have greater or lesser impacts on mobilization These are just some of the questions addressed in Media Mobilization and Human Rights which investigates the assumption that exposure to human rights violations in countries far away causes people to respond with activism Turning a critical eye on existing scholarship which argues either that viewing and reading about violence can serve as a force for good through increased activism or as a source of evil by objectifying and exploiting the victims of violence the authors argue that reality is far more complex and that there is nothing inherently positive or negative about exposure to the suffering of others In exploring this the book offers an array of case studies from human rights reporting in Mexican newspapers to the impact of media imagery on humanitarian intervention in Somalia from the influence of celebrity activism to the growing role of social media By examining a variety of media forms from television and radio to social networking the interdisciplinary set of authors present radical new ways of thinking about the intersection of media portrayals of human suffering and activist responses to them

The Media and Human Rights Ekaterina Balabanova, 2014-09-25 In recent years there has been an explosion in the usage and visibility of the language of human rights but what does this mean for the role of the media For evolving ideas about human rights And for the prospect of shared cosmopolitan values Ekaterina Balabanova argues that in order to answer these questions there needs to be a deconstruction of monolithic ways of thinking about the media and human rights incorporating the spectrum of political arguments and worldviews that underpin both Ten case studies are presented which illustrate many of the problems and challenges associated with the relationship between the media and human rights The examples range from cases of humanitarian intervention to analysis of global human rights campaigning on refugee issues from immigration and asylum to genocide freedom of speech and torture Anchored in an appreciation of the political conflicts and compromises at the heart of international human rights agreements The Media and Human Rights is an invaluable resource for students studying media and human rights international politics security studies and political communication

Social Work in a Glocalised World Mona Livholts, Lia Bryant, 2017-04-07 This engaging and timely volume contributes new knowledge to the rapidly emerging field of globalisation and social work The volume brings together cutting edge interdisciplinary scholarship from countries such as Australia Finland Japan South Africa the Philippines and Sweden It proposes glocalisation as a useful concept for re framing conditions methodologies and practices for social work in a world perspective Part I of the volume The Glocalisation of Social Issues deals with major environmental social and cultural issues migration and human rights environmental problems and gendered violence Part II Methodological Re Shaping and Spatial Transgression in Glocalised Social Work develops an epistemology of situated knowledge and methodologies inspired by art creative writing and cultural geography focusing on physical material and emotional spatial dimensions of relevance to social work Part III Responses from Social Work as a Glocalised Profession examines how social work has responded to specific social problems crises and vulnerabilities in a glocalised world Like an Animal: Critical Animal Studies Approaches to Borders, Displacement, and Othering, 2021-06-17 The contributors of Like an Animal challenge most fundamental concepts in the fields of racism dehumanization borders displacement and refugees that rest on the assumption of humanism They show how we can bend the arc of the moral universe toward justice at the border The goal of this interdisciplinary collection is twofold First to invite border migration studies to consider a broader social justice perspective that includes nonhuman animals Second to start a discussion if nonhumans maybe refugees of a kind and how humans can address nonhumans interests and needs from the perspective of addressing refugee issues As capitalism and the climate crisis are taking a catastrophic toll on the planet this timely volume exposes the alternative origins of violence that lie at the heart of the planet's destruction Information in International Law José M. Reis, 2024-10-16 Examining state behavior this book sheds light on the often overlooked role of information production and diffusion in international law and relations Most theories of public international law and state behavior rely on a certain degree of international law related information such as an international legal ruling being made public and diffused to reach various key actors such as third states or domestic actors However while assumptions about information being produced and diffused permeate international legal scholarly work these assumptions have not been systematically and empirically evaluated Based on an empirical analysis the author challenges prevailing assumptions by systematically evaluating the accessibility and dissemination of crucial international law related information such as treaty negotiation documents or legal rulings Using a variety of quantitative case studies on key stages of international lawmaking and covering various issue areas from human rights to trade law each chapter traverses three critical levels of analysis namely whether international law information is public and transparent whether the information is salient and reaches the general public and how the information is framed by the media and political elites The book will appeal to students researchers and scholars of law political science and economics as well as policy makers interested in a better understanding of information production and diffusion in international law and the impact of public opinion on compliance with international law Information Politics, Protests, and Human Rights in the Digital Age Mahmood Monshipouri, 2016-06-09 We live in a highly complex and evolving world that requires a fuller and deeper understanding of how modern technological tools ideas practices and institutions interact and how different societies adjust themselves to emerging realities of the digital age This book conveys such issues with a fresh perspective and in a systematic and coherent way While many studies have explained in depth the change in the aftermath of the unrests and uprisings throughout the world they rarely mentioned the need for constructing new human rights norms and standards This edited collection provides a balanced conceptual framework to demonstrate not only the power of autonomous communication networks but also their limits and the increasing setbacks

Global Crisis Reporting Simon Cottle, 2009 What are global crises and how do they differ from earlier crises What do recent studies of global crises reporting tell us about the role of the news media in the global age What are the current trends in the fields of journalism and civil society that are now re shaping the public communication of crises From climate change to the global war on terror from forced migration to humanitarian disasters these are just some of the global crises addressed in this accessible ground breaking book For the first time the author situates diverse threats to humanity in a global context and examines how why and to what extent they are conveyed in today s news media Global crises are conceived as the dark side of a globalizing world but how they become reported and constituted in the news media can also help sustain emergent forms of global awareness global citizenship and global civil society The book Draws on original research and scholarship in the field of media and communications Deliberately moves beyond nationally confined research studies Examines diverse global crises and their communicative politics Recognizes global crises and their constitution within global news reporting as defining characteristics of the global age Global Crisis Reporting is key reading for students in media communications globalization and journalism studies Minority Rights Group Report , International Action Against Genocide Leo Kuper, 1984 The report that follows has been commissioned and is published by the Minority Rights Group as a contribution to public understanding of the problem which forms its subject It does not necessarily represent in every detail and in all its aspects the collective view of the Group Page ii of cover Report , 1970 Sociological Abstracts

Leo P. Chall, 1979 Religion Index Two , 1991 AIDS worlds , 1998 Making Human Rights News John Pollock, Morton Winston, 2018-10-18 Making Human Rights News Balancing Participation and Professionalism explores the impact of new digital technology and activism on the production of human rights messages It is the first collection of studies to combine multidisciplinary approaches citizen witness challenges to journalism ethics and expert assessments of the liberating role of the Internet addressing the following questions 1 What can scholars from a wide range of disciplines including communication studies journalism sociology political science and international relations studies add to traditional legal and political human rights discussions exploring the impact of innovative digital information technologies on the gathering and dissemination of human rights news 2 What questions about journalism ethics and professionalism arise as growing numbers of untrained citizen witnesses use modern mobile technology to document claims of human rights abuses 3 What are the limits of the liberating role of the Internet in challenging traditional sources of authority and credibility such as professional journalists and human rights professionals 4 How do greater Internet access and human rights activism interact with variations in press freedom and government censorship worldwide to promote respect for different categories of human rights such as women's rights and rights to health. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Human Rights. Forging Peace Mark Thompson, Monroe E. Price, 2019-08-07. During the past decade a number of bloody conflicts have focused international attention on the strategic role of the media in promoting war and perpetuating chaos. The challenges posed by systematic manipulation of the media have been particularly acute in Bosnia, Rwanda, Kosovo, East Timor wherever the international community intervened to prevent atrocities or stop them or help rebuild society in their aftermath. Written against this backdrop, Forging Peace brings together case studies and legal analysis of the steps that the United Nations, NATO and other organisations both governmental and non-governmental have taken to build pluralist and independent media in the wake of massive human rights violations. Forging Peace maps an important aspect of contemporary peacemaking. It examines current thinking on the legality of unilateral humanitarian intervention then analyses in graphic detail the pioneering use of information intervention techniques in conflict zones ranging from full scale bombardment and confiscation of transmitters to the establishment of new laws and regulatory regimes. As the social and economic role of the media expands and information technology spreads driving governments in the world's trouble spots to seek more sophisticated ways of controlling public opinion, Forging Peace looks set to influence policy and debate for years to come. The contributors: Eric Blinder, Patrick Carmichael, Helen Darbshire, Stephanie Farrior, Alison Des Forges, Peter Krug, Dan De Luce, Julie Mertus, Jamie Metzl, Philip Taylor, David Wimhurst. The Mass Media as a Mechanism for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights Kwesi Nyarkoh Koomson, 2016-08-29. Essay from the year 2013 in the subject Communications. Mass Media language English abstract. There is no generally acceptable definition of Human Rights. This is perhaps because Human Rights scholars have different opinions about the concept. Human Rights are generally moral rights claimed by everyone and held against everyone especially against those who run social institutions. Orend 2002. At the global stage the United Nations UN has for years played a leading role in promoting and protecting human rights with support from International Non-governmental Organisations. In addition to the effort of the United Nations UN the state has basically been seen as the main actor in the promotion and protection of Human Rights. Unfortunately states according to Hakemulder et al 1998 are often the very abuser of the rights of the citizens they are required to protect. It is noteworthy however that though the state bears the primary responsibility in issues of human rights other organs of the society are included in the protection and promotion of Human Rights. Addo 1999. These organs, institutions and mechanisms include constitutions, law and legality, the courts among others. This write up is about to discuss one of such mechanisms the mass media in relation to how it carries out its promotion and protection role of Human Rights. Although there are International Human Rights Instruments which the United Nations UN has produced to serve as common standard of achievement of all people countless Human Rights Violations occur locally and across the globe. These violations could be committed by the state as well as non-state actors Non state actors violate people's Human Rights through direct involvement or indirectly when they consent to such violations Non state actors such as individuals groups informal or organized ad hoc or continuous may pose as violators protectors or intermediaries
