Human Rights and the United Nations Abigail B. Bakan, Yasmeen Abu-Laban, 2025-03-17 This book considers the complex and contradictory role of the United Nations when it comes to human rights around the world. It depicts the United Nations as a global arena in which state and non-state actors continuously contest issues around human rights. This ongoing contestation simultaneously produces both advances and setbacks when it comes to the rights of stateless populations, women, Indigenous peoples, and racialized people, as well as rights related to health and the environment. Since the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights and throughout various subsequent expansions, conventions, and declarations, the United Nations has been central to the development and advancement of human rights as a primary stated goal of global governance. However, there are various inherent contradictory tensions and challenges embedded in the United Nations' promise for human rights. This timely collection investigates the United Nations' role as knowledge producer, its relation to non-state actors, and the United Nations' role as a system for grouping sovereign states where there is uneven buy-in within non-binding agreements and tensions between national sovereignty and human rights. At a time when the world faces existential challenges from climate change to pandemics which disproportionately impact the world's most vulnerable populations, this book addresses future challenges and possibilities for the United Nations' Human Rights and the United Nations' Paradox and Promise will be an important read for researchers and students across the fields of human rights, political science, international relations, and global development, as well as for United Nations and governmental policy analysts and advisors.

Anthropologies of Global Maternal and Reproductive Health Lauren J. Wallace, Margaret E. MacDonald, Katerini T. Storeng, 2022-01-11 This open access edited book brings together new research on the mechanisms by which maternal and reproductive health policies are formed and implemented in diverse locales around the world, from global policy spaces to sites of practice. The authors, both internationally respected anthropologists and new voices, demonstrate the value of ethnography and the utility of reproduction as a lens through which to generate rich insights into professionals and lay people's intimate encounters with policy. Authors look closely at core policy debates in the history of global maternal health across six different continents, including Women's use of misoprostol for abortion in Burkina Faso. The place of traditional birth attendants in global maternal health, Donor-driven maternal health programs in Tanzania, Efforts to integrate qualitative evidence in WHO maternal and child health policy making, Anthropologies of Global Maternal and Reproductive Health will engage readers interested in critical conversations about global health policy today. The broad range of foci makes it a valuable resource for teaching in medical anthropology, anthropology of reproduction, and interdisciplinary global health programs. The book will also find readership amongst critical public health scholars, health policy and systems researchers, and global public health practitioners.

Climate change justice and human rights: An African perspective Ademola Oluborode Jegede, Oluwatoyin Adejonwo, 2023-01-16 Populations in Africa are vulnerable to both the direct and indirect adverse effects of climate change that are of human rights significance The urgency for states in Africa to implement climate interventions while they face developmental challenges however raises questions of justice or fairness between the developed and the developing states Consequently interrogating how the human rights paradigm may respond to negative implications of climate change and its fairness is important as states continue to engage with the climate change standard setting This edited volume critically interrogates human rights paradigm as an intervention to secure climate change justice for vulnerable populations analyses regional protection against human rights consequences of climate change and assesses emerging interventions based on domestic regulatory frameworks on climate change in selected states in Africa
