Surviving Andersonville Ed Glennan, 2013-06-06 This is a documentary work offering a first person account of a Union soldier's daily adversity while a prisoner of war from 20 September 1863 to 4 June 1865. In 1891 while a patient at the Leavenworth National Home Irish immigrant Edward Glennan began to write down his experiences in vivid detail describing the months of malnutrition, exposure, disease, and self-doubt. The first six months Glennan was incarcerated at Libby and Danville prisons in Virginia. On 20 March 1864 Glennan entered Camp Sumter located near Andersonville, Georgia. He reminisced about the events of his eight-month captivity at Andersonville such as the hanging of the Raider Six, escape tunnels, gambling, trading ration wagons, and disease. Afflicted with scurvy, Glennan nearly lost his ability to walk. To increase his chances for survival, he skillfully befriended other prisoners, sharing resources acquired through trade, theft, and trickery. His friends left him either by parole or death. On 14 November 1864 Glennan was transported from Andersonville to Camp Parole in Maryland; there he remained until his discharge on 4 June 1865.

Simó, 2023-02-16 Making Hong Kong Pui-yin Ho, 2018-09-28 This insightful book provides a comprehensive survey of urban development in Hong Kong since 1841. Pui-yin Ho explores the ways in which the social, economic, and political environments of different eras have influenced the city's development. From colonial governance, wartime experiences, high density development, and adjustments before and after 1997 through contemporary challenges, this book explores forward-looking ideas that urban planning can offer to lead the city in the future. Evaluating the relationship between town planning and social change, this book looks at how a local Hong Kong identity emerged in the face of conflict and compromise between Chinese and European cultures. In doing so, it brings a fresh perspective to urban research, providing historical context and direction for the future development of the city. Hong Kong's urban development experience offers not only a model for other Chinese cities but also a better understanding of Asian cities more broadly. Urban studies scholars will find this an exemplary case study of a developing urban landscape. Town planners and architects will also benefit from reading this comprehensive book as it shows how Hong Kong can be taken to the next stage of urban development and modernisation.
