How

Everyday Forms of Racial Categorization Survived Imperialist Censuses in Puerto Rico Rebecca Jean Emigh,Patricia Ahmed,Dylan Riley,2021-09-29 This book examines the history of racial classifications in Puerto Rico censuses starting with the Spanish censuses and continuing through the US ones Because Puerto Rican censuses were collected regularly over hundreds of years they are fascinating test cases to see what census categories might have been available and effective in shaping everyday ones Published twentieth century censuses have been well studied but this book also examines unpublished documents in previous centuries to understand the historical precursors of contemporary ones State centered theories hypothesize that censuses especially colonial ones have powerful transformative effects In contrast this book shows that such transformations are affected by the power and interests of social actors not the strength of the state Thus despite hundreds of years of exposure to the official dichotomous and trichotomous census categories these categories never replaced the continuous everyday ones because the census categories rarely coincided with Puerto Rican s interests

Urban Mobility and Social Equity in Latin America Daniel Oviedo, Natalia Villamizar Duarte, Ana Marcela Ardila Pinto, 2020-11-16

This volume of Transport and Sustainability focuses on how spatial and social mobilities are intertwined in the reproduction of spatial and social inequities in Latin American cities. Rurality, Diversity and Schooling Neroli Colvin, 2024-02-22

Migration and refugee settlement policies have brought significant demographic changes to some regional centres over the past two decades and this book focuses on one such centre: a mid-size town in New South Wales. Historically, social relations in rural settlements have been enacted primarily within a white/black Anglo Indigenous binary but, in recent years, this town has become home to several hundred refugees from Africa, South East Asia, and the Middle East. Using interview, observational and documentary data, the book examines how multiculturalism is understood, valued and lived in the town's two public high schools. Schools are key sites for everyday interactions between people from diverse ethnic, cultural, language and religious backgrounds. Drawing on critical theories of discourse, space and race, the book examines a host of anxieties in the town and its schools about recent demographic changes, revealing how notions of rurality steeped in colonial narratives
