Deterministic Lotsizing Models for Production Planning Marc Salomon,2013-11-11 This thesis deals with timing and sizing decisions for production lots and more precisely with mathematical models to support optimal timing and sizing decisions These models are called lotsizing models They are characterized by the fact that production lots are determined based on a trade off between production costs and customer service Production costs can be categorized as basic production costs which consist of material costs labour costs machine startup costs and overhead costs and inventory related costs which include costs of capital tied up in inventory insurances and taxes Customer service is the capability of the firm to deliver to their clients the products in the quantity they ordered at the agreed upon time and place The costs of realizing a certain service level are usually very difficult to convert into money They include costs of expediting loss of customer goodwill and loss of sales revenues resulting from the short age situation lectures on Computational Combinatorial Optimization given by leading members of the optimization community. The lectures introduce modern combinatorial optimization techniques with an emphasis on branch and cut algorithms and Lagrangian relaxation approaches. Polyhedral combinatorics as the mathematical backbone of successful algorithms are covered from many perspectives in particular polyhedral projection and lifting techniques and the importance of modeling are extensively discussed. Applications to prominent combinatorial optimization problems e.g. in production and transport planning are treated in many places in particular the book contains a state of the art account of the most successful techniques for solving the traveling salesman problem to optimality. Multi-Agent-Based Production Planning and Control Jie Zhang, 2017-05-09

Guidelines for Evaluating the Management Information Systems of Industrial Enterprises Edilberto L. Segura, 1985

These guidelines are intended to assist in evaluating the adequacy of the management information systems (MIS) of industrial enterprises. The introduction discusses the objectives of a management information system and suggests how to use the guidelines. The guidelines are divided into five parts corresponding to the five functions of the enterprise: i) finance and accounting, ii) human resources, iii) marketing, distribution and transportation, iv) operations including production, materials management and maintenance, and v) new investments and procurement. For each of these functions the guidelines will help evaluate the impact on the company's MIS of the business environment and management framework as well as the adequacy of the company's systems for strategic planning tactical planning management control and transaction recording processes In addition a section is provided to help quantify the evaluation of the MIS Furthermore the guidelines are meant to assist in evaluating the MIS systems of its potential borrowers but not intended to establish the Bank's requirements regarding MIS under its loans and credits They may however prove of use to some enterprise managers in their own internal evaluation processes Medium-term Plan for the Period ...
