Sign-Communication System for Special Populations, Volume 1. John D. Bonvillian, Nicole Kissane Lee, Tracy T. Dooley, Filip T. Loncke, 2020-07-30 Simplified Signs presents a system of manual sign communication intended for special populations who have had limited success mastering spoken or full sign languages It is the culmination of over twenty years of research and development by the authors The Simplified Sign System has been developed and tested for ease of sign comprehension memorization and formation by limiting the complexity of the motor skills required to form each sign and by ensuring that each sign visually resembles the meaning it conveys Volume 1 outlines the research underpinning and informing the project and places the Simplified Sign System in a wider context of sign usage historically and by different populations Volume 2 presents the lexicon of signs totalling approximately 1000 signs each with a clear illustration and a written description of how the sign is formed as well as a memory aid that connects the sign visually to the meaning that it conveys While the Simplified Sign System originally was developed to meet the needs of persons with intellectual disabilities cerebral palsy autism or aphasia it may also assist the communication needs of a wider audience such as healthcare professionals aid workers military personnel travellers or parents and children who have not yet mastered spoken language The system also has been shown to enhance learning for individuals studying a foreign language Lucid and comprehensive this work constitutes a valuable resource that will enhance the communicative interactions of many different people and will be of great interest to researchers and educators alike The Best 117 Law Schools Eric Owens, Princeton Review (Firm), 2004 Our Best 357 Colleges is the best selling college guide on the market because it is the voice of the students Now we let graduate students speak for themselves too in these brand new guides for selecting the ideal business law medical or arts and humanities graduate school It includes detailed profiles rankings based on student surveys like those made popular by our Best 357 Colleges guide as well as student quotes about classes professors the social scene and more Plus we cover the ins and outs of admissions and financial aid Each guide also includes an index of all schools with the most pertinent facts such as contact information And we've topped it all off with our school says section where participating schools can talk back by providing their own profiles It's a whole new way to find the perfect match in a graduate school Verbal Ability & Comprehension for CAT, XAT & other MBA Entrance Exams 4th Edition Disha Experts, The Role of Working Memory and Executive Function in Communication under Adverse Conditions Mary Rudner, Carine Signoret, 2016-06-20 Communication is vital for social participation However communication often takes place under suboptimal conditions This makes communication harder and less reliable leading at worst to social isolation In order to promote participation it is necessary to understand the mechanisms underlying communication in different situations Human communication is often speech based either oral or written but may also involve gesture either accompanying speech or in the form of sign language For communication to be achieved a signal generated by one person has to be perceived by another person attended to comprehended and responded to This process may be hindered by adverse conditions including factors that may be internal to the sender e g incomplete or idiosyncratic language production occur during transmission e g background noise or signal processing or be internal to the receiver e g poor grasp of the language or sensory impairment The extent to which these factors interact to generate adverse conditions may differ across the lifespan Recent work has shown that successful speech communication under adverse conditions is associated with good cognitive capacity including efficient working memory and executive abilities such as updating and inhibition Further frontoparietal networks associated with working memory and executive function have been shown to be activated to a greater degree when it is harder to achieve speech comprehension To date less work has focused on sign language communication under adverse conditions or the role of gestures accompanying speech communication under adverse conditions It has been proposed that the role of working memory in communication under such conditions is to keep fragments of an incomplete signal in mind updating them as appropriate and inhibiting irrelevant information until an adequate match can be achieved with lexical and semantic representations held in long term memory Recent models of working memory highlight an episodic buffer whose role is the multimodal integration of information from the senses and long term memory It is likely that the episodic buffer plays a key role in communication under adverse conditions The aim of this research topic is to draw together multiple perspectives on communication under adverse conditions including empirical and theoretical approaches This will facilitate a scientific exchange among individual scientists and groups studying different aspects of communication under adverse conditions and or the role of cognition in communication As such this topic belongs firmly within the field of Cognitive Hearing Science Exchange of ideas among scientists with different perspectives on these issues will allow researchers to identify and highlight the way in which different internal and external factors interact to make communication in different modalities more or less successful across the lifespan Such exchange is the forerunner of broader dissemination of results which ultimately may make it possible to take measures to reduce adverse conditions thus facilitating communication Such measures might be implemented in relation to the built environment the design of hearing aids and public awareness
