The Art of Ancient Greece J. J. Pollitt, 1990 This book a companion volume to Professor Pollitt's The Art of Rome Sources and Documents published by the Press in 1983 presents a comprehensive collection in translation of ancient literary evidence relating to Greek sculpture painting architecture and the decorative arts Its purpose is to make this important evidence available to students who are not specialists in the Classical languages or Classical archaeology The author's translations of a wide selection of Greek and Latin texts are accompanied by an introduction explanatory commentary and a full bibliography An earlier version of this book was published twenty five years ago by Prentice Hall In this new publication Professor Pollitt has added a considerable number of new passages revised some of his earlier translations and presented the texts in a different order which allows the reader to follow more easily the development of sculpture and painting as perceived by the ancient writers The new and substantial bibliography organised by topics as they appear in the book emphasises works that deal directly with the literary sources or that supplement our knowledge of the personalities and monuments described in the sources This collection will be welcomed by students and teachers of Greek art who have long been in need of an authoritative and reliable sourcebook for their subject

Committee on Appropriations, 1959 Social Sustainability Practices within the Supply Chain of Multinational Corporations Constantin Beyer von Morgenstern, 2012-12-20 Master's Thesis from the year 2012 in the subject Business economics Supply Production Logistics grade 1 0 Honours Degree course Supply Chain Management language English abstract Today most Multinational Corporations MNCs are eager to install sustainable standards not just within their own but also within their supply chain operations While the two pillars of sustainability economic and environmental are well researched within this field of business the third pillar social sustainability SSS lags behind within the researchers focus However because of recent social scandals within the supply chain operations of Multinationals an investigation targeting social sustainability and its effective implementation within the supply chain would provide important insights into such yet neglected field of research This thesis tries to tackle this issue and analyses whether MNCs extent their SSS practices to suppliers in regulatory distant countries the same way as they do within countries close to their home market The thesis intends to fill the research gap which exists around SSS and provides valuable insides into how consistent MNCs are in extending SSS practices among their supplier network On the basis of telephone interviews and company data the thesis analyses the social sustainability efforts of The Otto Group the second largest online retailer in the world The two methods to monitor suppliers compliance that are examined in this thesis are assessment and collaboration Results show that Multinationals should not rely on either one of these two monitoring methods but should combine them using Assessment only as first step and Collaboration as second Since assessment usually provides the buyer solely with a snapshot of the current situation at suppliers site collaboration as second step provides the relationship with a more mutual character Frequent non compliance of parties the buyer and the supplier emphasise that collaboration and therefore mutual controlling processes are necessary In case the business relationship between buyer and supplier does involve operations in risky low regulated countries these findings are even more highlighted
