The authors look within Canada and abroad for solutions for balancing the Canadian media ecology. Public policies have been central to the creation and shaping of Canada's media system and rather than wait for new technologies or economic models, the contributors offer concrete recommendations for how public policies can foster journalism that can support democratic life in twenty-first century Canada. Their work, which includes new theoretical perspectives and valuable discussions of journalism practices in public, private, and community media, should be read by professional and citizen journalists, academics, media activists, policy makers, and media audiences concerned about the future of democratic journalism in Canada. Journal of Intergroup Relations, 2004 Music in Range Brian Fauteux, 2015-11-02 Music in Range explores the history of Canadian campus radio, highlighting the factors that have shaped its close relationship with local music and culture. The book traces how campus radio practitioners have expanded stations from campus borders to surrounding musical and cultural communities by acquiring FM licenses and establishing community-based mandates. The culture of a campus station extends beyond its studio and into the wider community where it is connected to the local music scene within its broadcast range. The book examines campus stations and local music in Vancouver, Winnipeg, and Sackville, NB, and highlights the ways that campus stations, through music-based programming, their operational practices, and the culture under which they operate, produce alternative methods and values for circulating local and independent Canadian artists at a time when ubiquitous commercial media outlets do exactly the opposite. Music in Range

Range sheds light on a radio sector that is an integral component of Canada's musical and cultural fabric and positions campus radio as a worthy site of attention at a time when connectivity and sharing between musicians, music fans and cultural intermediaries are increasingly shaping our experience of music radio and sound Mass Communication in Canada Rowland Lorimer, Mike Gasher, David Skinner, 2007 Mass Communication in Canada examines the past, present and future of mass communication and its effects on society Principles of Sociology James E. Curtis, Lorne Tepperman, 2006 A brief version of Lorne Tepperman's and James Curtis' Sociology: Canadian Perspectives this text introduces students to the study of sociology through an overview of sociological theories and research methods and a discussion of how these are applied to the study of major social processes and institutions. A team of contributors explain key concepts and theories by examining Canadian society within a global context For Sale to the Highest Bidder Marita Moll, Leslie Regan Shade, 2008 Canadian Books in Print, 2003 From Hobbits to Hollywood Ernest Mathijs, Murray Pomerance, 2006 Peter Jackson's film version of The Lord of the Rings 2001-2003 is the grandest achievement of 21st century cinema so far. But it is also linked to topical and social concerns including war, terrorism and cultural imperialism. Its style, symbols, narrative and structure seem always already linked to politics, cultural definition, problems of cinematic style and the elemental mythologies that most profoundly capture our imaginations. From Hobbits to Hollywood: Essays on Peter Jackson's Lord of the Rings treats Jackson's trilogy as having two conditions of existence: an aesthetic and a political. Like other cultural artefacts, it leads a double life as objet d'art and public statement about the world so that nothing in it is ever just cinematically beautiful or tasteful and nothing is ever just a message or an opinion. Written by leading scholars in the study of cinema and culture, From Hobbits to Hollywood gives Jackson's trilogy the fullest scholarly interrogation to date. Ranging from interpretations of The Lord of the Rings ideological and philosophical implications through discussions of its changing fandoms and its incorporation into the Hollywood industry of stars, technology, genre and merchandising to considerations of CGI effects, acting, architecture and style, the essays contained here open a new vista of criticism and light for ardent fans of J. R. R. Tolkien, followers of Jackson and all those who yearn for a deeper appreciation of cinema and its relation to culture Feminist Interventions in International Communication Katharine Sarikakis, Leslie Regan Shade, 2008 This cutting edge work critiques today's global mediascape through feminist perspectives highlighting concerns of policy, power, labor and technology. Starting with the general state of international communications, the book uses feminist political economic and policy analyses to explore the globalization of media industries including questions about women's employment and media content that is globally produced and consumed. A top notch group of authors covers cases on online news, pornography and explicit material, political participation and democracy policies for women's development, violence against women, labor practices and information workers, print media and publishing, public telecentres, media coverage of HIV/AIDS and more. Providing fresh feminist insights into international communication, this essential book shows the important strides taken.
