Help Seeking in Academic Settings Stuart A. Karabenick, Richard S. Newman, 2013-01-11 Building on Karabenick's earlier volume on this topic and maintaining its high standards of scholarship and intellectual rigor Help Seeking in Academic Settings Goals, Groups, and Contexts brings together contemporary work that is theoretically as well as practically important. It highlights current trends in the area and gives expanded attention to applications to teaching and learning. The contributors represent an internationally recognized group of scholars and researchers who provide depth of analysis and breadth of coverage. Help seeking is currently considered an important learning strategy that is linked to students' achievement goals and academic performance. This volume not only provides answers to who, why, and when learners seek help but raises questions for readers to consider for future research. Chapters examine help seeking as a self-regulated learning strategy and its relationship to achievement goal theory; help seeking in collaborative groups; culture and help seeking in K-12 and college contexts; help seeking and academic support services such as academic advising centers; help seeking in computer-based interactive learning environments; help seeking in response to peer harassment at school; and help seeking in non-academic settings such as the workplace. This book is intended for researchers, academic support personnel, and graduate students across the field of educational psychology, particularly those interested in student motivation and self-regulation. Congressional Record United States Congress, 1967 Bulletin of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, 1988 United States of America Congressional Record, Proceedings and Debates of the 113th Congress First Session Volume 159 - Part 13, Library Services in Mental Health Settings Mary E. In Advice on the Education of China, Zhu Yongxin explores points of view from both educational researchers and government officials and policymakers, thus providing a broader range of topics than any other book available to Western audiences. The book covers such topics as the concept of fair education, education evaluation, the purpose of comprehensive education, special education, education without interference from political administration, and the comparative study of education between east and west countries. Zhu Yongxin, Beijing, China, is a member of the National People's Congress Standing Committee, vice chairman of the Association for Promoting Democracy (CAPD), and vice president of the Chinese Society of Education (CSE). He also works as a professor and PhD supervisor in Suzhou University. Beyond Access Samantha Hellawell, 2001 Encouraging the use of new technology involves more than just making it accessible.
