English for Research Usage Style and Grammar English for Writing Research Papers     AI-Assisted Writing and Presenting in English Adrian Wallwork, 2024-06-03 This book is part of the English for Academic Research series. It shows university students and researchers how to optimize their use of chatbots and machine translation in order to correct the English usage of a research paper and write emails, letters and presentation scripts and slides in English. English speaking language editors, translators and EAP teachers will also find this book useful. The main focus is on ChatGPT and Google Translate. However, the techniques proposed will also work with equivalent tools. You will learn the areas where ChatGPT works well, correcting, improving, paraphrasing, reducing and summarizing texts, generating, suggesting texts, answering queries and simulating academic scenarios. A key strategy for enhancing the output of machine translation is to pre edit and post edit your texts. This book tells you how. You will also learn what ChatGPT is currently NOT able to do e.g. differentiating between essential and non-essential listing, all the changes it has made, highlighting your key findings and advising you when you have written too much plagiarized, used biased language or forgotten to mention the limitations of your work. The book lists over 170 prompts that you can use with a chatbot. The author recommends using ChatGPT as an assistant but not for generating an entire paper. Adrian Wallwork edits scientific papers and teaches English for Academic Purposes (EAP) to PhD students. In addition to his many books for Springer, he has written course books for Oxford University Press and discussion books for Cambridge University Press. He is passionate about exploiting the advances in artificial intelligence to help researchers around the world write and publish their work.

English for Academic Research: Grammar Exercises Adrian Wallwork, 2012-09-27 This book is based on a study of referees' reports and letters from journal editors on reasons why papers written by non-native researchers are rejected due to problems with English grammar. It draws on English-related errors from around 5000 papers written by non-native authors, several hundred emails, 500 abstracts by PhD students and over 1000 hours of teaching researchers how to write and present research papers. The exercises include the following areas: active vs. passive, use of 'we', articles, 'a' and 'the', zero and quantifiers, some, any, few, etc., conditionals and modals, countable and uncountable nouns, genitive, infinitive vs. ing form, numbers, acronyms, abbreviations, relative clauses and 'which' vs. 'that', tenses (e.g. simple present, simple past, present perfect, word order). Exercise types are repeated for different contexts. For example, the difference between the simple present, present perfect and simple past is tested for use in papers, referees' reports and emails of various types. Such repetition of similar types of exercises is perfect for revision purposes. English for Academic Research Grammar Exercises is designed for self-study and there is a key to all exercises. Most exercises require no actual writing but simply choosing between various options, thus facilitating e-reading and rapid progress. The exercises can also be integrated into English for Academic Purposes (EAP) and English for Special Purposes (ESP) courses at universities and research institutes. The book can be used in conjunction with the other exercise books in the series and is cross-referenced to English for Research Usage Style and Grammar, English for Writing Research Papers, English for Academic Correspondence and Socializing.
