The New Deal

Reading Comprehension

Read the passage and answer the questions.

The Great Depression was a severe economic downturn that began in 1929 and lasted until the mid-1930s. It was the worst economic crisis in the history of the United States, with unemployment reaching nearly 25% and many people losing their homes and jobs.

The New Deal was a series of programs and policies implemented by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to provide relief, recovery, and reform during the Great Depression. It included the creation of the Federal Reserve, the Social Security Act, and the National Industrial Recovery Act.

The New Deal was a turning point in American history, as it marked the first time that the federal government took direct action to address the economic needs of the citizens. It also established the foundation for the modern welfare state.

The New Deal was a response to the crisis of the Great Depression, and it was a landmark moment in American history. It was a time when the government stepped in to help the people, and it was a time when the government began to play a more active role in the economy.

The New Deal was a series of programs and policies that were designed to provide relief, recovery, and reform during the Great Depression. It was a time when the government stepped in to help the people, and it was a time when the government began to play a more active role in the economy.
