The research studies included in this Special Issue highlight the fundamental contribution of the knowledge of environmental history to conscious and efficient environment conservation and management. The long term perspective of the dynamics that govern the human climate ecosystem is becoming one of the main focuses of interest in biological and earth system sciences. Multidisciplinary bio geo archaeo investigations into the underlying processes of human impact on the landscape are crucial to envisage possible future scenarios of biosphere responses to global warming and biodiversity losses. This Special Issue seeks to engage an interdisciplinary dialog on the dynamic interactions between nature and society focusing on long term environmental data as an essential tool for better informed landscape management decisions to achieve an equilibrium between conservation and sustainable resource exploitation.

It Seemed Like a Good Idea at the Time Carl Judson Launius, 1995

God I loved football. Thus begins the saga of a small town southern boy whose life is altered irreparably by the All American sport of high school football. Following the injury that leaves him paralyzed from the neck down, Carl Launius learns with a fierce finality that nothing will ever be the same again. In search of a world outside the confines of a wheelchair, Launius turns to Freud, Dostoyevsky, Eliot, college writing, booze, sex, and drugs on his way to becoming a radical degenerate poet. He haphazardly juggles higher education with attendant care, first love, substance abuse, portable ramps, and too full of beer, urine bags bobbing up and down physically and emotionally from the Arkansas Ozarks to Illinois to UC Davis and back again to Little Rock. Whether slung like a feedsack over the shoulder of a friend, dumped in the floorboard of a van, astride a railroad track, or dead-broke at the horse races in Hot Springs, Launius presses on without whining, resolved to beat the odds and live a valid life. This book is proof that he has found that life.

This book provides a rigorously researched introduction to the relationship between Christianity, race, and sport in the United States. Christianity, Race, and Sport examines how Protestant Christianity and race have interacted, often to the detriment of Black bodies, throughout the sporting world over the last century. Important sporting figures and case studies discussed include the sanctification of baseball player Jackie Robinson, the domestication of Muhammad Ali, and George Foreman's religious expressions of athletes in the NFL, the treatment of African American tennis player Serena Williams, Colin Kaepernick, and his prophetic voice. This accessible and conversational book is essential reading for undergraduate students approaching religion and race or religion and sport for the first time, as well as those working within the sociology of sport, sport studies, history of sport, or philosophy of sport.

and analysis of the Vietnamese Revolution by bringing it up to final Communist victory in 1975 Although it deals with the relevant developments in the North it basically concentrates on the struggle in the South following the massive US intervention in 1965 Unlike other analyses it focuses primarily on the Vietnamese protagonists the Communists and the Republic of Viet Nam examining above all the questions of why the former were able to win and whether the latter could ever have been a viable regime
