Designing for Democracy Jennifer Forestal, 2022 How should we fix digital technologies to support democracy instead of undermining it In Designing for Democracy Jennifer Forestal argues that accurately evaluating the democratic potential of digital spaces means studying how the built environment a primary component of our modern public square structures our activity shapes our attitudes and supports the kinds of relationships and behaviors democracy requires While many scholars and practitioners are attentive to the role of design in shaping behavior they have yet to fully engage with the question of what structures are required to support democratic communities and how to build them Forestal closes this gap by providing a new theory of democratic space Drawing from a wide range of disciplines including architecture psychology and the history of political thought she argues that democratic spaces must be designed with three environmental characteristics boundaries durability and flexibility that taken together afford users the ability to engage in fundamental civic practices Through extended analyses of Facebook Twitter and Reddit Forestal shows precisely how well these digital platforms meet the criteria for democratic spaces or whether they do so at all The result is a more nuanced analysis of the democratic communities that form or fail to emerge in these spaces as well as more concrete suggestions for how to improve them In connecting the built environment digital technologies and democratic theory Designing for Democracy provides blueprints for democracy in a digital age

Immunotherapies Against Infectious Diseases Saba Tufail, Mohammad Asif Sherwani ,Najmul Islam, 2024-11-08

Infectious diseases have jeopardized human health significantly as evidenced by the ongoing Covid 19 pandemic. In recent years the world has witnessed outbreaks of many emerging and re-emerging infections such as SARS most recent by SARS CoV 2, Ebola, Zika, MERS, dengue, which in addition to taking millions of lives have posed major health issues in recovered individuals. Moreover, several infectious agents like hepatitis B and C viruses, human papillomavirus, human immunodeficiency virus type 1, Epstein Barr virus, human T cell leukemia lymphoma virus type 1, Kaposi sarcoma associated herpesvirus, Helicobacter pylori and Streptococcus bovis have been found to cause different types of cancers since the action mechanism of these agents sometimes transforms an infected cell into a cancer cell. As these infections are difficult to treat with available drugs owing to their lower efficacy, toxicity and emergence of drug resistance, immunotherapy is viewed as a viable option. Immunotherapy is manipulating body's defense mechanism to treat/manage disease. Threats of emerging and re-emerging infectious diseases in addition to dangers of developing cancer due to cancer-causing infectious agents combined with lack of effective treatment modalities has shifted focus of scientific community to immunotherapy. Advancements in immunotherapies comprising vaccines, monoclonal antibodies, cytokines, T cells and checkpoint inhibitors have shown immense promise in combating not only cancer but infectious diseases as well. Through this Research Topic we aim to discuss recent advances in immunotherapy based treatment/management of infectious diseases. We aim to include studies that evaluate how different forms of immunotherapies including vaccines have been can be exploited for preventing/treating/managing infectious diseases. We welcome Original Research Articles, Reviews and Mini reviews discussing the following main themes: Vaccines against emerging/re-emerging diseases; Vaccine design components/technologies such as adjuvants, delivery systems, administration route, dosage; Targeted therapy; Cancer immunotherapy using but not limited to monoclonal antibodies, cytokines, T cells and checkpoint inhibitors; Monoclonal antibodies including nanobodies against SARS COV 2 for the treatment and prevention of COVID 19; Immunotherapies for infectious diseases using but not limited to monoclonal antibodies, cytokines, T cells and checkpoint inhibitors. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts elaborating the use of delivery systems, nanoparticles, nanomaterials for the aforementioned theme/themes.
