Ousmane Sembene Pronunciation:

Ousmane Sembène Samba Gadjigo, 2010 Samba Gadjigo presents a unique personal portrait and intellectual history of novelist and filmmaker Ousmane Sembène. Though Sembène has persistently deflected attention away from his personality, his life and his past, Gadjigo has had unprecedented access to the artist and his family. This book is the first comprehensive biography of Sembène and contributes a critical appraisal of his life and art in the context of the political and social influences on his work. Beginning with Sembène's life in Casamance, Senegal, and ending with his militant career as a dockworker in Marseilles, Gadjigo places Sembène into the context of African colonial and postcolonial culture and charts his achievements in film and literature. This landmark book reveals the inner workings of one of Africa's most distinguished and controversial figures.

Ousmane Sembene and the Politics of Culture Lifongo J. Vétinéde, Amadou T. Fofana, 2014-11-12

Undoubtedly one of Africa's most influential first generation of writers and filmmakers, Ousmane Sembène's creative works of fiction as well as his films have been the subject of a considerable number of scholarly articles. The schemas of reading applied to Sembène's oeuvre—novels, short stories, and films—have in the main focused either on his militant posture against colonialism, his disenchantment with African leadership, or his infatuation with documenting the past in an attempt to present a balanced and nuanced view of African history. While these studies unquestionably contribute to a better understanding of his works, they collectively ignore Sembène's relentless preoccupation with culture in his entire career as a writer and filmmaker. The collection of essays in Sembène and the Politics of Culture sets out to fill that gap as the contributors at once foreground Sembène's fixation on the centrality of culture in the articulation of the discourse of national consciousness and reevaluate his intellectual and artistic legacy within an overarching framework of African liberation. The contributors critically reassess the ideological underpinnings of Sembène's thoughts, his role as one of the foundational pillars of African cultural production, and his relevance in current discourses of nationhood. They do so through a wide variety of interdisciplinary approaches that draw on linguistics, feminist theory, film theory, historiography, Marxist criticism, psychoanalysis, and a host of other approaches that give novel insights in the critical analysis of the works under study. In the part entitled "Testimonies," a collection of conversations with people who worked closely with Sembène, each of the interlocutors provide illuminating insights into the man's life and work. The variety of themes and critical approaches in this critical anthology will certainly be of interest not only to students and scholars of African literature and cinema at various levels of intellectual and cultural sophistication but also anyone interested in the analysis of the nexus between power, culture, and the discourse of liberation.

African Film Josef Gugler, 2003 In African Film: Re-imagining a Continent Josef Gugler provides an introduction to African cinema through an analysis of 15 films made by African filmmakers. These directors set out to re-imagine Africa; their films offer Western viewers the opportunity to re-imagine the continent and its people. As a point of comparison, two additional films on Africa—one from Hollywood, the other from apartheid South Africa—serve to highlight African directors altogether different perspectives Gugler's interpretation considers the financial and technical difficulties of African film production the intended audiences in Africa and the West the constraints on distribution and the critical reception of the films Identity Meets Nationality Helen Lauer, Nana Aba Appiah Amfo, Jemima Asabea Anderson, 2011 Questions about how social conditioning and historical circumstances influence assumptions about who we are and how others perceive who we are have attracted wide ranging discussion across the disciplines in the arts humanities and allied sciences Simultaneously since the Independence period scholars have deliberated over the varied implications of new states emerging throughout Africa The peer reviewed selected papers for this anthology represent a cross section of the diverse perspectives reflecting research and cross disciplinary collaborations undertaken by members of the University of Ghana faculty and graduate students working in archaeology literary criticism of African as well as English and Russian literatures economics history cognitive psychology linguistics dance music philosophy sociology and the study of religions The Routledge Companion to Literature and Social Justice Masood Ashraf Raja, Nick T. C. contains selected classroom activities and resources that enable both students and teachers to examine aspects of African life. The objectives of the handbook are to counteract stereotypes illuminate interdependencies between African countries and the United States and encourage U S students to view themselves as world citizens. The activities allow students to view specific African life styles from multiple perspectives. An extensive annotated bibliography of resources provides content information and teaching guidelines. The lesson plans use a participatory method of instruction and unit topics include The Diversity of Africa, Appreciating African Art Forms and Women's Roles in Africa.
