Challenges Appendices Dividing Africa with Policy Lara Hierro, 2020-06-08 This book addresses timely concerns of rising African nationalism and the 2nd decolonisation in Africa The wholesale rejection of all things considered Western is seen to be a result of integrationalism defined as the specific kind of methodology by which EU foreign policy engagement may be interpreted Using complexity theory and panarchy a specific arrangement of interacting complex adaptive systems together with a resilience assessment the EU's foreign policy is shown to be undermining the aims of the premier African institution the AU created to provide unity and security on the continent the EU pursues these objectives in its own image rather than honouring African values This book raises awareness of these issues as well as to widen the application of the theoretical framework in international relations and politics which is becoming increasingly important in a complex world The aim of this book is to show that the negative isolationism pursued in order to counteract western influence is not the answer and can be avoided through this awareness

German and Polish Views of the Partnership for Peace Thomas S. Szayna, Ronald D. Asmus, 1995 The research reveals that both Poland and Germany view PFP as the first step on a path to

NATO Review, 1999 The New Transatlantic Agenda, 1995 Partners of First Resort David McKean, Bart M. Szewczyk, 2021-03-23 Fostering a transatlantic renaissance to salvage the Western alliance Is the Western alliance which brought together the United States and Europe after World War II in an inevitable state of decline and if so can anything be done to repair it There seems little doubt that fragmentation of the Western alliance was under way even before Donald Trump's unorthodox policy making broadened the schism Opinions differ as to the next step however with some taking the current divisions as a given and advocating the creation of a new group of like minded democracies that would exclude the United States while others seek to exploit the rift in hopes of furthering their own nationalistic ambitions for a post liberal world The authors outline a transatlantic renaissance in which US and European leaders would work together to craft a new Atlantic Charter that would restore the liberal objectives that animated the Western alliance for more than seven decades Modernizing institutional relationships across the Atlantic should help both the United States and Europe address common challenges jointly and improve burden sharing The world needs a vibrant and energetic West to protect fundamental values from illiberal forces both internal and external US Department of State Dispatch, 1996 Standing Tall Olusegun Obasanjo, 2005

Key Publications of the European Union, 2015 Statements & Speeches, 1996 Renewing the Atlantic Partnership Henry Kissinger, Lawrence H. Summers, Charles Kupchan, Council on Foreign Relations, 2004 In the year that has passed since the war in Iraq the United States and its European allies have done much to repair their relations Nonetheless the end of the Cold War Europe's continuing integration and the new array of threats confronting the West continue to test the strength of the Atlantic partnership To revitalize the Atlantic alliance Europe and America must forge new rules of the road governing the use of force adapt the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO to meet today's threats coming from outside Europe and launch a major initiative to bring about political and economic reform in the greater Middle East These are the conclusions of an independent Task Force chaired by former secretary of state Henry A Kissinger and former secretary of the treasury Lawrence H Summers This report argues that the current rift in transatlantic relations is not solely a product of the war in Iraq but that the war brought these strains to a point of crisis What is surprising is the extent to which the terrorist attacks on the United States and the reactions of Europeans to America's response to those attacks have transformed these differences into active confrontation The report sets out priorities for the transatlantic community such as establishing new guidelines for the use of military force and developing a common policy toward irresponsible states that seek or possess weapons of mass destruction or that harbor or support terrorists It also lays out guidelines for restoring and deepening transatlantic cooperation EU Security and Defence Catherine Glière,2009 The various political crises that occurred in 2008 and the gradual shift of the world towards a new multipolar order vividly demonstrated the vital role that the EU can and should play on the international stage today This holds true whether in the context of the global financial crisis and its implications for the conduct of foreign policy regional crises or with regard to partnerships with the other global players As underlined by the High Representative for CFSP Javier Solana and by the European Commission in the Report on the European Security Strategy the EU now carries greater responsibilities than at any time in its history in the face of increasingly complex threats and challenges In Georgia Somalia Darfur Kosovo Guinea Bissau as well as in many other places in the world the European Union strives to contribute to the defence and protection of vulnerable civilian populations and to promote security This Chaillot Paper the IXth volume in the EUISS annual series of Core documents on European security and defence is a compilation of all the main decisions and initiatives undertaken by the EU in 2008 in the framework of the European Security and Defence Policy ESDP
