

The background of the book cover is an impressionistic painting. The top half is a dark, textured sky in shades of black and dark brown. Below the sky is a horizontal band of bright green and yellow, representing a grassy hill or shoreline. The bottom half of the cover is a body of water, painted with thick, expressive brushstrokes in various shades of blue, teal, and grey. A lighter, whiteish-grey shape is visible in the water, possibly representing a reflection or a small island.

Rothery, 2015-11-26 Proving to be both varied and fascinating moons are far more common than planets in our Solar System

Our own Moon has had a profound influence on Earth not only through tidal effects but even on the behaviour of some marine animals Many remarkable things have been discovered about the moons of the giant outer planets from Voyager Galileo Cassini and other spacecraft Scientists have glimpsed volcanic activity on Io found oceans of water on Titan and captured photos of icy geysers bursting from Enceladus It looks likely that microbial life beyond the Earth may be discovered on a moon rather than a planet In this Very Short Introduction David Rothery introduces the reader to the moons of our Solar System beginning with the early discoveries of Galileo and others describing their variety of mostly mythological names and the early use of Jupiter's moons to establish position at sea and to estimate the speed of light Rothery discusses the structure formation and influence of our Moon and those of the other planets and ends with the recent discovery of moons orbiting asteroids whilst looking forward to the possibility of finding moons of exoplanets in planetary systems far beyond our own
