Mors Britannica Life Style Death Style In Britain Today:

The Evolution of the British Funeral Industry in the 20th Century Brian Parsons, 2018-03-28 This book examines the shifts that have taken place in the funeral industry since 1900 focusing on the figure of the undertaker and exploring how organizational change and attempts to gain recognition as a professional service provider saw the role morph into that of funeral director

Mobilities in Life and Death Avril Maddrell, Sonja Kmec, Tanu Priya Uteng, Mariske Westendorp, 2023-06-06 This open access book focuses on migrant and minority cemetery needs through the conceptual lens of the mobilities of the living and the dead. In doing so the book brings migration and mobility studies into much needed dialogue with death studies to explore the symbolically and politically important issue of culturally inclusive spaces of cemeteries and crematoria for migrants and established minorities. The book addresses majority and minority cemetery and crematoria provisions and practices in a range of North West European contexts. It describes how the planning, management and use of cemeteries and crematoria in multicultural societies can tell us about the everyday lived experiences of migration and migrant heritage, urban diversity, social inclusion and exclusion in Europe and how these relate to migrant and minority experience of lived citizenship, practices of territoriality and bordering colonial postcolonial narratives. The book will be of interest to readers in the fields of migration, mobilities studies and death studies, as well as policy makers and practitioners such as local government officers, cemetery managers and city planners.

Family Mourning After War and Disaster in Twentieth-Century Britain Ann-Marie Foster, 2024-08-12 Across the twentieth century the families of people who died in war and disaster were left to make sense of their sudden loss and navigate newfound grief. This book focuses on the families of people who died in the First World War and in mining disasters in the early twentieth century. These bereaved families were often denied access to bodies and choice over burial rights all while dealing with the increased bureaucracy of death. Families created domestic memorials which took on additional meaning because of this lack of memorial agency elsewhere. Although the ways that these families were bereaved each took place in different circumstances the ways that families grieved were recognizable to one another they drew on common memorial practices augmented to take on special meaning after sudden death. This memorial material provided a vehicle for families to navigate their loss but also to communicate the memory of the dead both externally through donation to museums and linearly through ancestral lines. Drawing on a nuanced reading of a wide range of sources from ephemera to administrative museum paperwork this book explores family reactions to mass death events in early twentieth century Britain. The result is a comparative and domestic perspective on mourning at the turn of the century that makes important contributions to the growing field of death studies and will be of interest to those working on the First World War, interwar Britain, the history of work, the social history of the family and the history of memorialization. 6 b/w illustrations.

Counting Religion in Britain, 1970-2020 Clive D. Field, 2021-12-09 Counting Religion in Britain 1970-2020 the fourth volume in the author's chronological history of British secularization sheds significant new light on the nature scale and timing of religious change in Britain during the past half century with particular reference to quantitative sources Adopting a key performance indicators approach twenty one facets of personal religious belonging behaving and believing are examined offering a much wider range of lenses through which the health of religion can be viewed and appraised than most contemporary scholarship Summative analysis of these indicators by means of a secularization dashboard leads to a reaffirmation of the validity of secularization in its descriptive sense as the dominant narrative and direction of travel since 1970 while acknowledging that it is an incomplete process and without endorsing all aspects of the paradigmatic expression of secularization as a by product of modernization Mors Britannica Douglas J. Davies,2015-11-12 A people's lifestyle is one thing their death style another The proximity or distance between such styles says much about a society not least in Britain today Mors Britannica takes up this style issue in a society where cultural changes involve distinctions between traditional religion secularisation and emergent forms of spirituality all of which involve emotions where fear longing and a sense of loss rise in waves when death marks the root embodiment of our humanity These world orientations evident in older and newer ritual practices engage death in the hope and desire that love relationships community and human identity be not rendered meaningless Yet both emotions and ritual have an uneasiness to them because death is a slippery topic as the twenty first century gets under way in Britain In this work Douglas J Davies draws from a largely anthropological sociological perspective with consideration of history literature philosophy psychology and theology to provide a window into British life and insights into the foundation links between individuals and society across the spectrum of traditionally religious views through to humanist and secular alternatives He considers memorial sites from churchyards to roadside memorials forms of corporeal disposal from cremation to composting and death rites in a range of religious and secular traditions Urban Terrorism in Contemporary Europe Katharina Karcher,Yordanka Dimcheva,Mireya Toribio Medina,Mia Parkes,2024-09-13 This open access book sheds light on collective practices of remembering imagining and anticipating in relation to recent acts of urban terrorism in Europe Analysing a range of personal and collective responses to urban terrorism in contemporary Europe this book shows that current debates on this issue are shaped by multiple co existing and intersecting memories of political violence in the past Moreover despite public declarations of unity and solidarity collective memories of urban terror in contemporary Europe are far from consensual memory can be both a catalyst for and an impediment to social and political change Drawing on case studies from a range of European countries and creative responses by survivors artists and poets this interdisciplinary volume introduces readers to key methods e g discourse analysis and auto ethnography and concepts e g Lieux de Mémoire and grassroots memorials for the study of the memorialization of terror attacks Residues of Death Tamara Kohn,Martin Gibbs,Bjorn Nansen,Luke van Ryn,2019-05-16 This book provides a critical overview of the changing ways people mourn commemorate and interact with the remains of the dead including bodies materials and digital artefacts It focuses on how residues of death persist and circulate through different spaces materials data and mediated memories refiguring how the disposal of the dead is understood enacted and contested across the globe The volume contains contributions by scholars from a number of disciplines and includes a diverse range of case studies drawn from Asia Europe and North America Together they reveal how rapidly changing practices industries and experiences around death s remains involve the entwining of digital technologies with other material and ritualised forms of commemoration as well as with shifting boundaries between the sacred and the profane the institutional and the vernacular the public and the private Death, Grief and Loss in the Context of COVID-19 Panagiotis
