On the Improvement of Combustion Engines with Waste Heat Recovery Systems in Mobile Applications Thomas Matousek, 2019-08-10 This dissertation deals with the experimental and simulative investigation of waste heat recovery from combustion engine exhaust gas in passenger car applications The focus of the investigations lies on the thermodynamic cycle according to Rankine The boundary conditions of combustion engines and the limitations of an automobile cause new operating conditions and system operating parameters for Rankine systems which will be discussed within this work The system operating parameters were judged based on their potential to improve the efficiency of a running system by setting the optimal values for each individual situation Alternative circuit variants were investigated alongside of the basic configuration which allowed additional heat input into the system and thereby increase the power output of the Rankine system Another operative influence on a waste heat recovery system that was analyzed was the importance of engine operating parameters This on one hand lays groundwork and on the other hand displays the potentials of different system combinations The knowledge gained during stationary operation is transferred to dynamic operation in the following Cold start was chosen as the most important variant of dynamic operation Results from measurements at starting temperatures down to 10C are presented These include the first published measurements of temperature and power output for such scenarios The basics of the behavior of a Rankine system in cold start are extended by the impact of system operating parameters and circuit configurations Possible synergies through different kinds of connection from the condenser to the coolant system were investigated as a completing facet of the holistic system view The target of these investigations was to identify potentials for improvements in the cold start of the automobile by utilizing the heat that is available at the condenser

Pervasive Computing Patrik Floréen, Antonio Krüger, Mirjana Spasojevic, 2010-04-23 th Welcome to the proceedings of the 8 International Conference on Pervasive Computing Pervasive 2010 After Toronto Sydney and Nara the conference has now returned to Europe Pervasive is one of the most important conferences in the area of pervasive and ubiquitous computing As in the previous year we had two categories of technical papers Full Papers and Notes Pervasive attracted 157 valid submissions from which the Technical Program Committee TPC accepted 24 full papers and one note resulting in an overall acceptance rate of 16% The submissions included 628 authors from 27 countries representing all the continents except Antarctica As we can see from these figures Pervasive is a truly global highly competitive conference A major conference such as Pervasive requires a rigorous and objective process for selecting papers This starts with the selection of a high quality TPC We were fortunate to be able to draw on the wisdom and experience of our 28 TPC members from the most prestigious universities and research labs in Europe North America and Asia This committee was aided by the input of no less than 238 external reviewers chosen on the basis of their domain knowledge and relevance to pervasive computing The papers were selected using a double blind review with four peer reviews per paper and a discussion phase among the reviewers and a discussion of the papers in the TPC meeting which was held in Palo Alto during December 12-13, 2009.
