Military Balance 2012:

The Military Balance 2012 The International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS),2020-03-26 The Military Balance is the International Institute for Strategic Studies annual assessment of the military capabilities and defense economics of 170 countries worldwide It is a useful resource for those involved in security policy making analysis and research The book is a region by region analysis of the major military and economic developments A Guide to Intra-state Wars Jeffrey S. Dixon, Meredith Reid Sarkees,2015-10-22 This title describes how civil war is defined and categorized and presents data and descriptions for nearly 300 civil wars waged from 1816 to the present Analyzing trends over time and regions this work is the definitive source for understanding the phenomenon of civil war Research Handbook on the Arms Trade Andrew T.H. Tan,2020-12-25 This comprehensive Research Handbook examines the key drivers of the arms trade mapping the main trends in Asia Europe the Middle East Africa and Latin America It also explores the principal defence markets internationally including the US China India Russia and the UK in greater detail The Arms Race in Asia Andrew T.H. Tan,2013-12-13 This book is the first systematic examination of the emerging arms race in Asia The global trade in arms is to a large degree underpinned by the strong demand for arms in Asia and the Middle East the two largest arms export markets in the world Of these two regions Asia has become particularly significant led by the emergence of China and India as major powers It is therefore not surprising that the rapid military modernisation in Asia accompanied by significant increases in the size and sophistication of armed forces has generated attention as to its trends key characteristics causes and implications This phenomenon which has become evident since the end of the Cold War has also been widely described as an Asian arms race This book evaluates the key conceptual ideas which can shed light on this phenomenon as well as examining the complex mix of internal external and technological factors that have led to its emergence The volume explores the way in which the arms race is leading ultimately to three distinctive blocs in the emerging geostrategic landscape a loose bloc of US allies in the region a counter bloc of potential US adversaries and a neutral bloc of states with industrial age armed forces whose allegiances will vary according to circumstances and geostrategic developments The Arms Race in Asia concludes that if the emerging arms race is left unchecked it is likely that Asia will increasingly become a region of instability marked by conflicts and interstate wars The book will be of great interest to students of Asian politics strategic studies defence studies security studies and IR in general Security and Conflict in East Asia Andrew Tan,2015-04-24 Security and Conflict in East Asia provides a timely and comprehensive analysis of the sources and implications of conflict on the Korean peninsula and in the People s Republic of China and Japan the three biggest economies in the world This analysis provides the building blocks for effective solutions to manage these tensions more effectively and is a vital resource to those seeking a clearer understanding of conflict in the most pivotal region in the world In the context of increasingly tense China US strategic rivalry the ever present potential for conflict on the Korean peninsula and over Taiwan the absence of effective regional institutions and regimes the emerging arms race in the region the rise in nationalism and the absence of crisis management mechanisms there are many good reasons why the high potential exists for miscalculation and misperception sparking a regional conflict Given the presence of nuclear armed powers in East Asia namely China North Korea and the USA it is also possible that any regional conflict could escalate into a nuclear conflict involving the world's three largest economies the USA China and Japan The security of and any conflict in East Asia thus has tremendous implications for global security The Handbook is divided into four parts The introductory section includes chapters which set the context explain the history of international relations in East Asia and examine the phenomenon of regional arms race The second section is made up of a series of chapters focusing on China examining China's military modernization its relationship with the USA and the various territorial disputes in which it has been involved The third section focuses on Japan and North and South Korea looking at the security challenges facing Japan and the Korean peninsula A concluding section examines the future role of China and the USA in East Asia as well as the prospects for managing security in the region The contributing authors are all experts in their respective fields and all share an abiding concern over developments in East Asia Their contributions aim to assist in a better understanding of the issues to suggest possible solutions and draw attention to the need for diplomacy confidence building measures crisis management mechanisms and other measures to prevent conflict This volume will be of use to government institutions involved in foreign policy intelligence and defence reference libraries universities research institutes and non governmental organisations It will also appeal to analysts researchers journalists policy advisers students academics and the general reader Scholarly analysis is yet to catch up and currently there are no other comprehensive works examining conflict in East Asia in the context of the current tensions

Asia's Naval Expansion Geoffrey Till, 2012 The Asia Pacific region is likely to be the fulcrum of international security affairs in the twenty first century As the region's economies become stronger defense budgets are rising and navies are expanding and modernizing Some aspects of this procurement drive show signs of action reaction dynamics between peer competitors the hallmark of an arms race Is the Asia Pacific on the brink of an outright naval arms race that could entail vast expenditures threaten regional security and severely disrupt global trade Or can rising naval capabilities and a desire for prestige among regional powers be reconciled with economic interdependence freedom of navigation and managed competition between great powers This analyzes the naval expansion of the four major Asia Pacific powers the US China

India and Japan It looks at recent and planned procurement to find examples of action reaction behavior and analyzes the underlying tensions and the potential for competition It offers an insight into the size expenditure and capability of the naval forces in each country and the role of the navy in overall military strategy examines naval philosophies and specific security concerns and how these will influence decision making and assesses how each nation s naval strategy is evolving in response not only to global threats but to shifts in the regional power balance Back cover

The Gulf Military Balance Anthony H. Cordesman,2012 The report shows that the Gulf military balance is dominated by five major groups of military forces the Southern Gulf states Iran Iraq outside powers like the US and non state actors like the various elements of Al Qa ida the Mahdi militia and various tribal forces These forces are evolving in many ways Iran now presents a major threat in terms of its asymmetric and proxy warfare assets its growing missile arsenal and its potential nuclear capability The growing political unrest and instability in the region is creating new internal security challenges Domestic unrest in countries like Yemen could create new threats that cross the Saudi and Omani borders The threat of terrorism has so far been contained but remains all too real and has driven many regional states to make major increases in their paramilitary security and special forces The rising threats from asymmetric and proxy warfare nuclear weapons internal security threats and terrorism make it difficult to assess the military balance Hard numbers are only available on classic measures of conventional military strength or the total size of new force elements like paramilitary and missile forces There is no clear way to measure the balance of conventional and irregular forces in asymmetric conflicts or how missiles and proliferation will affect the balance

Taiwan's Security Policy Michael Chase,2008 Confounding expectations Taiwan is reducing its military spending even as its sole adversary the People s Republic of China modernizes its military and significantly increases its defense budget Michael Chase examines the key factors that have shaped Taiwan s security policy over a span of three decades Chase explores both the role of US security assurances in formulating Taiwan s defense policy and the profound influence that domestic politics has played He also considers the context of cross Strait relations and the implications of Taiwan s security choices for potential instability and conflict in the region and beyond Relying on extensive Chinese language sources and interviews he offers the most definitive treatment of Taiwan s security policy to date
