Regenerative Sanitation Thammarat Koottatep,Peter Emmanuel Cookey,Chongrak

Polprasert,2019-02-15 This book proposes Regenerative Sanitation as the next era of sanitation management and attempts to provide a foundation for the study of sanitation on the premise that sanitation is a complex and dynamic system that comprises of social ecological technological and resource systems The preconception is that sanitation will deliver maximal benefits to society only when there exists a cyclical integration of the three subsystems to enable appropriate linkages between technological design and the delivery platform so as to achieve optimal and sustained sanitation solutions It also calls for the rethinking of sanitation to change the narrative towards more progressive trajectories such as resource recovery and reuse rather than just amelioration It explores the contributions to food security livelihood support urban regeneration rural development and even local economies A new paradigm theory and ten principles for ensuring practical and effective sanitation solutions and management is presented In addition is a unique conceptual framework applicable to both developed and developing countries and to all stages processes and cycles of delivering sanitation solutions that could critically evaluate analyse and provide credible adequate and appropriate sanitation solutions All of which culminates in a strategic and practical application platform called Sanitation 4.0 that advocates for total rejuvenation and comprehensive overhaul with eight key strategic considerations for the implementation Regenerative Sanitation A New Paradigm For Sanitation 4.0 is interdisciplinary and encourages collaboration between engineers scientists technologists social scientists and others to provide effective and practical user centred solutions It includes relevant case studies examples exercise and future research recommendations It is written as both a textbook for researchers and students as well as a practitioners guide for

Smart Economy in Smart Cities T. M. Vinod Kumar, 2016-08-25 The present book highlights studies that show how smart cities promote urban economic development The book surveys the state of the art of Smart City Economic Development through a literature survey The book uses 13 in depth city research case studies in 10 countries such as the North America Europe Africa and Asia to explain how a smart economy changes the urban spatial system and vice versa This book focuses on exploratory city studies in different countries which investigate how urban spatial systems adapt to the specific needs of smart urban economy. The theory of smart city economic development is not yet entirely understood and applied in metropolitan regional plans. Smart urban economies are largely the result of the influence of ICT applications on all aspects of urban economy which in turn changes the land use system. It points out that the dynamics of smart city GDP creation takes different paths which need further empirical study hypothesis testing and mathematical modelling. Although there are hypotheses on how smart cities generate wealth and social benefits for nations there are no significant empirical studies available on how they generate urban economic development through urban spatial adaptation. This book with 13 cities research studies is one attempt to fill in the gap in knowledge base Our Shrinking Globe: Implications for Child Safety, An Issue of Pediatric Clinics of North America Avinash Shetty, 2016-01-19. Pediatricians in the United States and around the World continue to face a myriad of global health threats affecting child and adolescent health including 1 infectious diseases of poverty e.g. human immunodeficiency virus, HIV, tuberculosis, malaria and neglected tropical diseases in low and middle income countries (LMIC) especially in sub-Saharan Africa. 2 emerging and reemerging infectious diseases such as Ebola. 3 rise of non-communicable diseases e.g. common mental disorders, 4 unintentional injuries and 5 environmental health hazards e.g. climate change. Despite the promising news about rapid declines in maternal and child mortality in the era of Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) which originated from the United Nations Millennium Declaration in 2000, only 20% and 7% of LMIC are currently on track to attain the maternal and child mortality targets. For example, 44% of deaths in children younger than 5 years occur in neonates. Besides discovery of life saving interventions e.g. development of new and improved vaccines for maternal and child health, we also need to do a better job at bridging the knowledge implementation gap and increase the effectiveness of proven interventions. For example, despite the availability of effective vaccines to prevent pneumococcal pneumonia, rotavirus gastroenteritis and human papilloma virus related diseases e.g. cervical cancer, use of these vaccines remain suboptimal in LMIC. We need to recognize that global health is also local public health. For example, improving access, equity and quality of care for orphans and vulnerable children, immigrant and newly arrived refugee children in the U.S. remains a challenge. Timely access to psychiatric care for children and adolescents with mental illness is a major concern. The explosion of new age technology such as the internet also poses a considerable risk to children and adolescents. Pediatricians also need to be aware of diverse socio-cultural determinants of health and ethical issues in global health service and delivery. This issue of Pediatric Clinics of North America aims to address the above crucial global health challenges affecting children and adolescents. As practicing pediatricians we have the unique opportunity to influence local and global public health. In the post MDG era beyond 2015, collaborative partnerships between various disciplines and across research, education and service is vital to reduce health inequities in children worldwide. G.K. Hall

Waste Works Brenda Chalfin,2023-03-06 In Waste Works Brenda Chalfin examines Ghana's planned city of Tema theorizing about the formative role of waste infrastructure in urban politics and public life Chalfin argues that at Tema's midcentury founding a prime objective of governing authorities was to cultivate self contained citizens by means of tightly orchestrated domestic infrastructure and centralized control of bodily excrement to both develop and depoliticize the new nation Comparing infrastructural innovations across the city Chalfin excavates how Tema residents pursue novel approaches to urban waste and sanitation built on the ruins of the inherited order profoundly altering the urban public sphere Once decreed a private matter to be guaranteed by state authorities excrement becomes a public issue collectively managed by private persons Pushing self care into public space and extending domestic responsibility for public well being and bodily outputs popularly devised waste infrastructures are a decisive arena to make claims build coalitions and cultivate status Confounding high modernist ideals excremental infrastructures unlock bodily waste's diverse political potentials Index Current Urban Doc ABC-CLIO, LLC,1994 Sustainable Development Goals ,2018 The Publishers Weekly ,1970
