Peacemaking and the Extractive Industries Natalie Ralph,2017-11-22 Peacemaking and the Extractive Industries addresses a significant gap in research on the political and diplomatic role of multinational corporations in peace processes in intrastate conflict Corporate Peacemaking The author focuses on corporations in the oil and mining sectors supporting or participating in peace negotiations and mediation The chapters explore national level peace processes as well as those at community and global levels While the focus is on extractive companies the findings are valuable to companies from all industries looking at peace related processes This ground breaking book gives a comprehensive picture of how Corporate Peacemaking currently works how it can be developed and implemented and how it is likely to impact global governance and corporate culture in the future The book demonstrates that Corporate Peacemaking has the potential to be a powerful element in international governance and peace efforts and Ralph shows through the business case that companies as well as communities will benefit Ralph presents a new framework for Corporate Peace that will assist companies from all sectors in countries experiencing violent conflict in addition to instability human rights abuses and poor governance Based on rigorous academic research with practical case studies it is essential reading for practitioners academics policy makers and NGOs

Business, Peacebuilding, and Regulation Sean Molloy,2024-08-26 This book examines the relationship between business based peacebuilding and the opportunities that emerge from the pluralisation of regulation The core message is notwithstanding the broad range of regulatory initiatives and actors that exist in conflict affected settings the state should assume responsibilities for defining the types of contribution that business can and ought to make to peace It also demonstrates how the state through different forms and methods of regulation is well placed to engage businesses to do so It is particularly concerned with the potential for regulation to help address what is identified as a state of optimistic uncertainty in the field of business and peacebuilding On one level there is a sense of optimism around the types of contributions that businesses can and often do make as agents for peace On another there are varying degrees of uncertainty surrounding the actual peacebuilding impacts of business activities how businesses are to understand the ways in which to make these contributions and why businesses would do so Regulation this book will argue can play an important role in bridging the chasm between optimism and uncertainty This book will be of interest to those engaged not only with business and peacebuilding but also business and human rights business and development and business and the environment Moreover this book is also of contemporary interest in other ways the aftermath of the Ukrainian conflict as an example will require a concerted effort to rebuild that society after war Private sector actors could be a powerful vehicle for reconstruction and development and this book examines how regulation can be used to facilitate businesses involvement in peacebuilding efforts Local and Global Dynamics of Peacebuilding Christine Cubitt,2012-03-12 Local and Global Dynamics of Peacebuilding examines the complex contributing factors which led to war and state collapse in Sierra Leone and the international peacebuilding and statebuilding operations which followed the cessation of the violence This book presents nuanced and contextually specific knowledge of Sierra Leone's political and war histories and the outcomes of the implementation of programmes of post conflict reforms It embodies an analysis of the complex challenges involved in aligning international norms and values to local expectations and local priorities and examines the role of local and global actors and structures in attempts to build a strong state and lasting peace Using a theoretical framework informed by liberal peace philosophy as well as detailed and nuanced empirical evidence from the field the book constructs a critical analysis of the contemporary global paradigm for building longer term peace in war torn fractured and fragile societies This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding war and conflict studies development studies African politics and IR security studies

Governance, Natural Resources and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Carl Bruch, Carroll Muffett, Sandra Nichols, 2016-04-07 When the guns are silenced those who have survived armed conflict need food water shelter the means to earn a living and the promise of safety and a return to civil order Meeting these needs while sustaining peace requires more than simply having governmental structures in place it requires good governance Natural resources are essential to sustaining people and peace in post conflict countries but governance failures often jeopardize such efforts This book examines the theory practice and often surprising realities of post conflict governance natural resource management and peacebuilding in fifty conflict affected countries and territories It includes thirty nine chapters written by more than seventy researchers diplomats military personnel and practitioners from governmental intergovernmental and nongovernmental organizations The book highlights the mutually reinforcing relationship between natural resource management and good governance Natural resource management is crucial to rebuilding governance and the rule of law combating corruption improving transparency and accountability engaging disenfranchised populations and building confidence after conflict At the same time good governance is essential for ensuring that natural resource management can meet immediate needs for post conflict stability and development while simultaneously laying the foundation for a sustainable peace Drawing on analyses of the close relationship between governance and natural resource management the book explores lessons from past conflicts and ongoing reconstruction efforts illustrates how those lessons may be applied to the formulation and implementation of more effective governance initiatives and presents an emerging theoretical and practical framework for policy makers researchers practitioners and students Governance Natural Resources and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management The project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in this series address high value resources land water livelihoods and assessing and restoring natural resources

Catholic Peacebuilding and Mining Caesar A. Montevercchio, Gerard F. Powers, 2022-01-31 This book explores the role of Catholic peacebuilding in addressing the global mining industry Mining is intimately linked to issues of conflict human rights sustainable development governance and environmental justice As an institution of significant scope and scale with a large network of actors at all levels and substantial theoretical and ethical resources the Catholic Church is well positioned to acknowledge the essential role of mining while challenging unethical and harmful practices and promoting integral peace development and ecology Drawing together theology ethics and praxis the volume reflects the diversity of Catholic action on mining and the importance of an integrated approach It includes contributions by an international and interdisciplinary range of scholars and practitioners They examine Catholic action on mining in El Salvador Peru Colombia the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the Philippines They also address general issues of corporate social responsibility human rights development ecology and peacebuilding The book will be of interest to scholars of theology social ethics and Catholic studies as well as those specializing in development ecology human rights and peace studies

Business and Peace-Building Carol Bond, 2018-07-04 In a world struggling to adapt to seismic social and environmental changes the time is now for businesses to prioritise creating local conditions of peace This book builds on original research foregrounding peace as a core business outcome for natural resources industries Especially in non warlike situations where natural resources industries have exacerbated or caused conflict foregrounding peace as a core business outcome can bring substantial benefits Peace is a concept external and internal stakeholders understand Consequently research shows that when natural resources sector CSR professionals start reframing their day to day decisions in terms of peace outcomes they are more likely to create efficient and cost effective solutions to environmental social and economic business challenges This book provides both theory and practical suggestions for how to reframe day to day CSR activities of natural resources companies as peace focused business decisions Especially in the remote and rural regions of the world where natural resources industries have the greatest impact businesses can lead the way in contributing to conditions of peace while bringing much needed resources to market Extractive Industries Tony Addison,Alan Roe,2018-10-22 and the influence of the transnational political economy of global commodity production Contested Consultations in the Extractive Industries Paul A. Haslam, Nathan Andrews, Karin Buhmann, Ibironke T. Odumosu-Ayanu, Mark Stoddart, 2025-10-02 This volume examines how communities, companies, and governments contest and contribute to the evolution of norms, rules, and decision-making procedures that govern stakeholder consultation in the extractive industries. In recent years, international organisations, governments, and companies around the world have dramatically reformed the regime that governs consultations with community stakeholders about proposed extractive projects. However, the characteristics of this consultation regime are often contested with diverse stakeholders seeking to defend their interests by drawing on different authoritative interpretations of the rules, norms, and decision-making procedures that govern stakeholder consultation. Contestation over the meaning, governance, and practice of stakeholder consultation is the central thread that ties this book together. Within this overarching concern, the volume takes a global and comparative perspective that examines the complexity of these intersecting and overlapping consultation requirements with a particular focus on Indigenous Peoples using cases from the Global North and Global South including Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Canada, The Central African Republic, The Democratic Republic of Congo, Iceland, Ghana, Greenland, Guyana, Norway, and Peru. The book highlights the tensions associated with the application of this contested regime and identifies possible solutions from best practices around the world. From a theoretical perspective, the book unpacks the maze of overlapping consultation requirements and practices that highlights the normative disagreements between key stakeholders and the overlapping rules and procedures that govern the implementation of consultation. A unique contribution of this collection is the commentary from practitioners who reflect on the same issues addressed by the academic contributors but based on their own vast practical experience. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars researching public participation and stakeholder consultation in the extractive industries as well as natural resource governance and sustainable development more broadly.
