Asthma

in the Workplace David I. Bernstein, Jean-Luc Malo, 2013-05-10 Occupational factors are responsible for a large percentage of cases of asthma in adults of working age. Any irritant generated at high concentrations can cause occupational asthma and early diagnosis is critical because cure is still possible at this stage. This latest edition of Asthma in the Workplace reflects the rapid pace of discovery and research in workplace asthma that has taken place in recent years. This Fourth Edition retains the international flavor of prior editions with contributions from editors and contributors from around the world. Several chapters commence with clinical histories and workplace scenarios relevant to the focus of the chapter, making it particularly germane for primary care providers to develop skills in early recognition of the disease. Topics discussed include Definitions, historical background, epidemiology, genetics, pathophysiology, and animal models. Guidelines for assessing the worker and the workplace, and proposed guidelines for management, including compensation aspects, Medicolegal aspects, prevention, and surveillance. Detailed information about specific agents, including a variety of high and low molecular weight agents. Other types of work related asthma conditions such as irritant induced asthma, eosinophilic bronchitis, and occupational rhinitis. This new edition has been significantly restructured and places a greater emphasis on the clinical aspects of management and treatment. This heightened focus on practical considerations makes it a truly comprehensive hands on resource for practitioners and researchers in this fast moving field.

AACN Procedure Manual for Critical Care

American Association of Critical-Care Nurses, 2005. This essential resource offers comprehensive coverage of procedures unique to the critical care environment. Thoroughly updated and expanded, the new edition emphasizes evidence based practice and reflects the current state of critical care nursing practice. Information is presented in a logical step by step format with supporting rationales for each step of every procedure.

Reflections on International Trade Jeremy Streatfeild, Simon Lacey, 2008. New Reflections on International Trade seeks to take a new and refreshing look at some of the issues affecting the multilateral trading system at the present time. Its editors, Jeremy Streatfeild and Simon Lacey have both been actively involved in the field of international trade for a number of years in both an academic as well as practical capacity working first at the World Trade Institute in Berne and then the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva. They have both been active in advising developing countries with regard to WTO accession as well as the on going Doha Round of multilateral trade negotiations. This volume brings together a vibrant combination of experienced and recognized commentators on the subject such as Tim Josling, Stanford Pierre Sauve, LSE and Rakesh Bhala, the University of Kansas. But it also opens the way for younger talent to express their views on a whole range of important issues such as Xialou Zhu, WTO Appellate Body Secretariat, Fernando Pierola, Advisory Center on WTO Law and Manleen Dugal, the Commonwealth Secretariat.
