The Labour of Subjectivity Andrea Rossi, 2015-11-30 Michel Foucault defined critique as an exercise in de subjectivation To what extent did this claim shape his philosophical practice What are its theoretical and ethical justifications Why did Foucault come to view the production of subjectivity as a key site of political and intellectual emancipation in the present Andrea Rossi pursues these questions in The Labour of Subjectivity The book re examines the genealogy of the politics of subjectivity that Foucault began to outline in his lectures at the Collège de France in the late 1970s and early 1980s He explores Christian confession raison d'état biopolitics and bioeconomy as the different technologies by which Western politics has attempted to produce regulate and give form to the subjectivity of its subjects Ultimately Rossi argues that Foucault's critical project can only be comprehended within the context of this historico political trajectory as an attempt to give the extant politics of the self a new horizon Precarious Labour and Informal Economy Smita

Yadav, 2018-06-13 An empirical account of one of India's largest indigenous populations this book tells the story of the Gonds who currently face displacement and governmental control of the region's forests which has crippled their economy Rather than protesting and calling for state intervention the Gonds have turned toward an informal economy they not only engage with flexible forms of work but also bargain for higher wages and experience agency and autonomy Smita Yadav conceives of this withdrawal from the state in favour of precarious forms of work as an expression of anarchy by this marginalized population Even as she provides rich detail of the Gonds unusual working lives which integrate work labour and debt practices with ideologies of family and society Yadav illustrates the strength required to maintain dignity when a welfare state has failed Ethics and Science Education: How Subjectivity Matters Jesse Bazzul, 2016-05-24 This book encapsulates a line of research that looks at how students are positioned as ethical actors decision makers in biology education by science policy curriculum and classroom resources Its basis comes from a textbook study that examined how biology texts work to constitute subjectivities related to neoliberalism and global capitalism sex gender and sexuality and ethics The study found that textbook discourses set limits on a the types of ethical concerns represented b the modes of ethical engagement c the dispositions necessary to engage in ethical action or decision making Policy reform regulation and personal lifestyle choices were the primary ways students could approach ethical decision making or action While these approaches are useful they are likely not sufficient for dealing with major twenty first century problems such as climate change and social inequality along with new ethical dimensions introduced by biotechnologies and genomic research This research brief sets a context for how discourses of science education policy and curricula work to shape a subject of ethics that is how students come to see themselves as participants in issues of ethical concern Drawing from a structural poststructural philosophical approach Science and Technology Studies educational research and a methodology based on discourse analysis and ethnography this book's overall goal is to assist with research into subjectivity ethics politics policy and socioscientific issues in science

This book is based on the topics questions and results of the international conference Aesthetics of Transformation Arts Education Research and the Challenge of Cultural Sustainability It aims to foster and sharpen the understanding of the potential role of arts education and arts education research for cultural sustainability In an ever more complex and interconnected world culture is a valuable resource for sustainable development Based on the thesis that the change towards sustainability has to be a change that starts with cultural practices of perception and knowledge this book makes an important contribution to the broad discourse on cultural sustainability which has begun to emerge in recent years In this context the volume first deals with Intangible Cultural Heritage and how aesthetic practices and certain forms of art are changing through cultural transformation processes Subsequently it focuses on issues such as arts and cultural education in times of neoliberalism post migration and post coloniality as well as on arts and cultural education under conditions of digital transformation These theoretical and empirical contributions are complemented by insights into field trips to institutions and exemplary places of practice showing different representations of educational art practices cultural heritage and cultural sustainability Against this background the book finally offers responses and commentaries that can form the starting point for a far reaching interactive dialogical process on the utmost importance of cultural aesthetic and arts education as part of a global endeavor for sustainable development

Gender, Subjectivity, and Cultural Work Christina Scharff,2017-09-27

What is it like to work as a classical musician today How can we explain ongoing gender racial and class inequalities in the classical music profession What happens when musicians become entrepreneurial and think of themselves as a product that needs to be sold and marketed Gender Subjectivity and Cultural Work explores these and other questions by drawing on innovative empirical research on the working lives of classical musicians in Germany and the UK Indeed Scharff examines a range of timely issues such as the gender racial and class inequalities that characterise the cultural and creative industries the ways in which entrepreneurialism as an ethos to work on and improve the self is lived out and the subjective experiences of precarious work in so called creative cities Thus this book not only adds to our understanding of the working lives of artists and creatives but also makes broader contributions by exploring how precarity neoliberalism and inequalities shape subjective experiences Contributing to a range of contemporary debates around cultural work Gender Subjectivity and Cultural Work will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of Sociology Gender and Cultural Studies

Young People and Uncertain Futures? James Goring,Peter Kelly,2025-08-29 Drawing on Foucault's genealogical ethos and his work on power knowledge subjects this book analyses the ways in which neo liberal education apparatuses in Australia and other high income economies frame the problem of young people and uncertain futures The book critically examines the character of the presents and futures of education training and work and of the planet that have been produced in globalising neo liberal capitalism during the last four decades and which see in the development of young people's enterprise and aspiration the solutions to multiple crises and uncertainties It analyses how and why young people's behaviours and dispositions have been made knowable in these ways and the limits and possibilities that they produce for understanding what young people must be and become The book draws on post humanist feminist studies of techno science and futures studies to explore the promise of more socially just and sustainable futures for young people A thought provoking study for scholars and students of the sociology of education and of youth and society it will be invaluable for policymakers governments NGOs educators and undergraduate and postgraduate students interested in young people and the crises of capitalism earth systems and the biosphere

The Subject of Prostitution Jane Scouler,2015-12-22 The Subject of Prostitution offers a distinctive analysis of the links between prostitution and social theory in order to advance a critical analysis of the relationship of law to sex work Using the lens of social theory to disrupt fixed meanings the book provides an advanced analytical framework through which to understand the complexity and contingencies of sex work in late modernity The book analyses contemporary citizenship discourse and the law's ability to meet the competing demands of empowerment by sex workers and protection by radical feminists who view prostitution as the epitome of patriarchal sexual and economic relations Its central focus is the role of law in both structuring and responding to the problem of prostitution By developing a distinctive constitutive approach to law the author offers a more advanced analytical framework from which to understand how law matters in contemporary debates and also suggests how law could matter in more imaginative justice reforms This is particularly pertinent in a period of unprecedented legal reform both internationally and nationally as legal norms simultaneously attempt to protect empower and criminalise parties involved in the purchase of sexual services The Subject of

Crisis, Austerity, and Everyday Life Gargi Bhattacharyya,2015-10-29 Will austerity never end This timely and insightful book argues that austerity seeks to set the terms of political and economic life for the foreseeable future extending techniques of exclusion to ever greater sections of the population Unsettled Labors Rachel H. Brown,2024-06-24 In Unsettled Labors Rachel H Brown explores the overlooked labor of migrant workers in Israel s eldercare industry Brown argues that live in eldercare in Palestine Israel which is primarily done by migrant workers is an often invisible area where settler colonialism is reproduced culturally economically and biologically Situating Israeli labor markets within a longer history of imperialism and dispossession of Palestinian land Brown positions migrant eldercare within the resulting tangle of Israeli laws policies and social discourses She draws from interviews with caretakers public statements court documents and first hand fieldwork to uncover the inherently contradictory nature of elder care work the intimate presence of South and Southeast Asian workers in the home unsettles the idea of the Israeli home as an exclusively Jewish space By paying close attention to the comparative racialization of migrant workers Palestinians asylum seekers and Mizrahi and Ashkenazi settlers Brown raises important questions of labor social reproduction displacement and citizenship told through the stories of

Foucault,Arnold I. Davidson,Graham Burchell,2008-04-17 Foucault continues on the theme of his 1978 course by focusing on the study of liberal and neo liberal forms of government and concentrating in particular on two forms of neo liberalism German post war liberalism and the liberalism of the Chicago School Biopower Vernon W. Cisney,Nicolae Morar,2015-12-28 Michel Foucault's notion of biopower has been a highly fertile concept in recent theory influencing thinkers worldwide across a variety of disciplines and concerns In The History of Sexuality An Introduction Foucault famously employed the term to describe a power bent on generating forces making them grow and ordering them rather than one dedicated to impeding them making them submit or destroying them With this volume Vernon W Cisney and Nicolae Morar bring together leading contemporary scholars to explore the many theoretical possibilities that the concept of biopower has enabled while at the same time pinpointing their most important shared resonances Situating biopower as a radical alternative to traditional conceptions of power what Foucault called sovereign power the contributors examine a host of matters centered on life the body and the subject as a living citizen Altogether they pay testament to the lasting relevance of biopower in some of our most important contemporary debates on issues ranging from health care rights to immigration laws HIV prevention discourse genomics medicine and many other topics The Government of Life Vanessa Lemm,Miguel Vatter,2014-04-05 Foucault's late work on biopolitics and governmentality has established him as the fundamental thinker of contemporary continental political thought and as a privileged source for our current understanding of neoliberalism and its technologies of power In this volume an international and interdisciplinary group of Foucault scholars examines his ideas of biopower and biopolitics and their relation to his project of a history of governmentality and to a theory of the subject found in his last courses at the College de France Many of the chapters engage critically with the Italian theoretical reception of Foucault At the same time the originality of this collection consists in the variety of perspectives and traditions of reception brought to bear upon the problematic connections between biopolitics and governmentality established by Foucault's last works The Republic of the Living Miguel Vatter,2014-07-15 This book takes up Foucault's hypothesis that liberal civil society far from being a sphere of natural freedoms designates the social spaces where our biological lives come under new forms of control and are invested with new forms of biopower In order to test this hypothesis its chapters examine the critical theory of civil society from Hegel and Marx through Lukacs

Adorno Benjamin and Arendt from the new horizon opened up by Foucault's turn to biopolitics and its reception in recent Italian theory Negri Agamben and Esposito have argued that biopolitics not only denotes new forms of domination over life but harbors within it an affirmative relation between biological life and politics that carries an emancipatory potential. The chapters of this book take up this suggestion by locating this emancipatory potential in the biopolitical feature of the human condition that Arendt called natality. The book proceeds to illustrate how natality is the basis for a republican articulation of an affirmative biopolitics. It aims to renew the critical theory of civil society by pursuing the traces of natality as a surplus of life that resists the oppressive government of life found in the capitalist political economy in the liberal system of rights and in the bourgeois family. By contrast natality offers the normative foundation for a new republic of the living. Finally natality permits us to establish a relation between biological life and contemplative life that reverses the long held belief in a privileged relationship of thinking to the possibility of our death. The result is a materialist atheological conception of contemplative life as eternal life.

A Foucault for the 21st Century Sam Binkley, Jorge Capetillo-Ponce, 2009-01-23

How relevant is Foucault's social thought to the world we inhabit today? This collection comprises several essays considering the contemporary relevance of the work of Michel Foucault. While Foucault is best remembered for his historical inquiries into the origins of disciplinary society in a period extending from the 16th to the 19th centuries, it seems that today under the conditions of global modernity the relevance of his ideas are called into question. With the increasing ubiquity of markets, the break up of centralized states and the dissolution of national boundaries together with new scientific and political discourses on biological life, the world of today seems far removed from the bounded disciplinary societies Foucault described in his most famous books. Yet in recent years it has become apparent that Foucault's thoughts on modern society have not been exhausted and indeed that much remains to be explored. Within this volume novel interpretations and thematic developments of key Foucauldian concepts are presented in the works of 24 authors. Prominent among them are new forms of neoliberal economic conduct framed by distinct governmentalities, new critical concepts of biological life reflected in Foucault's analysis of biopower and new theoretical treatments of the effects of subjectivation. Moreover, included among these theoretical departures are empirical studies of contemporary formations of religion and spiritual practice, consumerism, race and racism, the discourse of genetics and the life sciences, surveillance and incarceration and new social movements. Drawn from a conference held at the University of Massachusetts Boston bearing the same title, A Foucault for the 21st Century: Governmentality, Biopolitics and Discipline in the New Millennium, both expands our understanding of Foucault's central theoretical legacy and applies his ideas to a range of contemporary empirical phenomena.

Marx and Foucault Antonio Negri, 2017-01-12

This is the first of a new three part series in which Antonio Negri, a leading political thinker of our time, explores key ideas that have animated radical thought and examines some of the social and economic forces that are shaping our world today. In this first volume, Negri shows how the thinking of Marx and Foucault were brought together to create an original theoretical synthesis particularly in the context of Italy from May 68 onwards At around that time the structures of industry and production began to change radically with the emergence of new producer subjects and new fields of capitalist value creation New concepts and theories were developed by Foucault Deleuze and Guattari and others to help make sense of these and related developments concepts such as biopower and biopolitics subjectivation and subsumption public and common power and potentiality These concepts and theories are examined by Negri within the broader context of the development of European philosophical discourse in the twentieth century Marx and Foucault provides a unique account of the development of radical thought in the late 20th and early 21st centuries and will be a key text for anyone interested in radical politics today
