James VI and I Jenny Wormald, 2021-10-21 The renowned historian Jenny Wormald was a ground breaking expert on early modern Scottish history especially Stewart kingship noble power and wider society She was most controversial in her book length critique of Mary Queen of Scots Unfortunately Jenny never got round to producing a similar monograph on a monarch she was infinitely more fond of King James VI and I before her untimely death in 2015 In the absence of such a book this volume brings together all the major essays by Jenny on James She wrote on almost every aspect and every major event of James reign from the famous Gunpowder Plot the Plantation of Ulster the Gowrie Conspiracy to the witchcraft panics as well as James extensive writings She wrote extensively on James Scottish rule but she was also keenly interested in James as the first king of all of Britain and many of her essays unpick the issues surrounding the Union of the Crowns and James rule over all three of his kingdoms This book is an invaluable resource for any scholar on this crucial time in the history of the British Isles Debating Women, Politics, and Power in Early Modern Europe Sharon L. Jansen, 2008-03-15 The sixteenth century was an age of politically powerful women Queens acting in their own right and female regents acting on behalf of their male relatives governed much of Western Europe Yet even as women ruled and ruled effectively their right to do so was hotly contested Men s voices have long dominated this debate but the recovery of texts by women now allows their voices long silenced to be heard once again Debating Women Politics and Power in Early Modern Europe is a study of texts and textual production in the construction of gender society and politics in the early modern period Jansen explores the gynecocracy debate and the larger humanist response to the challenge posed by female sovereignty

Byzantion Paul Graindor, Henri

Grégoire,1946 Includes section Comptes rendus Medieval Feminist Forum ,1999 The Beguines of Medieval Świdnica Tomasz Gałuszka,Paweł Kras,2023 Documents recording the interrogation of sixteen women and the nature of their unusual spiritual practices now available in a full edition and for the first time a full English translation In September 1332 in the town of widnica an important economic and communication centre of what was then Silesia a group of sixteen women stood before the Dominican inquisitor John of Schwenkenfeld to testify about the local community of beguines who called themselves the Hooded Sisters or the Daughters of Odelindis We are fortunate that the original records of this heresy interrogation have survived preserved as a notarial instrument drawn up shortly afterwards eventually transferred to the Papal Curia and now kept in the Vatican Library The documents provide unique insights into the everyday life and spirituality of this group of lay women as they attempted to adopt the ideals of vita apostolica They lived in the strict poverty they thought necessary for spiritual perfection and took part in austere ascetic practices including regular flagellation and a strict diet regime aiming to mortify sinful flesh and help them achieve mystical union with God Using this evidence the authors of this book piece together a sense of who these interrogated beguines were and the nature of their spiritual practices Were they pious illiterates or self trained theologians keenly interested in debates around the doctrine of such intellectuals as Master Eckhart John Duns Scotus and Thomas Aquinas The book also addresses the nature of their interrogation and the conduct of Friar John of Schwenkenfeld And it contains a full edition and for the first time a full English translation of the documents themselves Library Catalog of the Metropolitan Museum of Art Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.). Library,1980 Shakespeare Quarterly ,2003 The Catholic Historical Review ,1972
