Continental Powers and Naval Development Brian C. Chao, 2025-10-16

This book examines how continental great powers have attempted to develop and wield strong navies since 1801 Continental Powers and Naval Development argues that a continental great power's ability to build and effectively use a strong navy is greatly affected by two factors a naval force design capable of executing national strategy strategy coherence and the deployment of that navy to places or for purposes that minimize the dominant naval power's threat perception threat diffusion Each factor is deceptively difficult for a continental great power to achieve but through an analysis of four historical case studies this book shows how both factors are vital not just for successful naval development but for keeping the peace among great powers Finally it highlights how states commonly thought of as unnatural naval powers can nonetheless achieve their political objectives at sea This book will be of much interest to students of naval history maritime strategy and International Relations

Chinese Grand Strategy in the 21st Century Thomas M. Kane, Noah

Falkovich, 2023-10-20 This book examines the state of China's grand strategy in the 21st century including political military and economic factors Over the past two decades the People's Republic of China PRC has attained the second highest gross domestic product in the world taken a leadership role in East Asian regional organisations and substantially improved its military capabilities Each of these developments and many others like them have attracted attention from scholars journalists and policymakers Less frequently acknowledged but perhaps of greater significance is the impressive congruence of Beijing's accomplishments This book highlights how the PRC's successes support one another and pave the way for future accomplishments and how these successes seem to be achieved in an unusually coherent and purposeful way As Beijing's relations with the rest of the world continue to evolve with events ranging from the ongoing global economic crisis to the turbulence in China's own stock market which may bring the PRC's government under pressure to re order its priorities this book assesses China's grand strategy and long term approach to national policy It identifies the political military and economic instruments it is likely to use the key challenges which it will face and explores the implications for the global community This book will be of great interest to students of Chinese politics foreign policy strategic studies international security and IR in general The views expressed are those of the authors and do not reflect the official guidance or position of the U S Government the Department of Defense DoD the U S Air Force or the U S Space Force The appearance of external hyperlinks does not constitute endorsement by the DoD of the linked websites or the information products or services contained therein The DoD does not exercise any editorial security or other control over the information you may find at these locations 2017 Report to Congress of the U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission, November 2017, 115-1 ,2018 Report to Congress of the U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission

U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission,2021 Military and Security Developments Involving the People's Republic of China ,2010 Over the past 30 years China has made great progress in its pursuit of economic growth and development which has allowed China to achieve higher living standards for the Chinese people and has increased China s international profile These economic achievements combined with progress in science and technology have also enabled China to embark on a comprehensive transformation of its military The pace and scope of China s military modernization have increased over the past decade enabling China s armed forces to develop capabilities to contribute to the delivery of international public goods as well as increase China s options for using military force to gain diplomatic advantage or resolve disputes in its favor Earlier this decade China began a new phase of military development by articulating roles and missions for the People s Liberation Army PLA that go beyond China s immediate territorial interests Some of these missions and associated capabilities have allowed the PLA to contribute to international peacekeeping efforts humanitarian assistance and disaster relief and counterpiracy operations The United States recognizes and welcomes these contributions Other investments have allowed the PLA to pursue anti access and area denial strategies Still others appear designed to improve the PLA s ability for extended range power projection although China s ability to sustain military power at a distance today remains limited As the 2010 Quadrennial Defense Review Report notes China is developing and fielding large numbers of advanced medium range ballistic and cruise missiles new attack submarines equipped with advanced weapons increasingly capable long range air defense systems electronic warfare and computer network attack capabilities advanced fighter aircraft and counter space systems Military and Security Developments Involving the People's Republic of China
