Paving the Way in Reading and Writing Larry Lewin, 2003-04-07 Definition of Topic Middle and high school teachers note that all too many adolescent students are less than proficient in reading and writing, the twin pillars of literacy. Teaching such students to meet today's tougher educational standards can be a challenge. Emphasizing the important connections between comprehension, communication, and learning, this book offers teachers in all content areas a structured approach for enabling students to strengthen their reading and writing competency and thus boost their potential for academic success. The approach is motivational as well as practical and features extensive tools and techniques for helping students overcome their reading and writing fears, persist in their practice, build on their success, and finally to share what they've learned. The book features many dozens of teacher-tested activities, lessons, and exercises that can be adapted in any classroom and is abundantly illustrated with examples of student work. Lessons involving literary as well as informational texts are included, as are visualization and interpretive exercises aimed at appealing to the less verbally oriented students.
