Morris, Kenneth Morris, 2006 The guide provides easy to understand simple explanations of the complexities of everyday finances Included is important information about banking home finance credit financial planning investing and taxes Publisher s website How To Save Money Hamilton Blanza, 2018-10-17 Some people I just don't have money while others have saving accounts full to the brim What is the difference? Some people have money and others just don't do it How to convert from a person who can't have a saving account to one who can boast of saving money is just as much a requirement as anything else. You're either a person who can save money or you can't. The good news is that this requirement is based on your personality not on your intelligence but surely making money is a requirement. The brain is like any other body part and it can be trained to become good at anything. For example you don't have to diet to get fit you don't have to drive a car in the first place. The key to getting started is small and let your virtuous mindset take care of making huge savings all the time but immediately adopting a small rule that every little bit counts. This principle is the most important thing in saving money. Letting for that 100 dollars put in your saving account will not be the trick especially if you are not a money saver. Making a habit of saving small amounts of money will help you build a habit which would transform into a big result over a long time. You have to train your brain to let your virtuous mindset learn from your mistakes and persevere to make saving a habit and part of your virtuous life. It's a fruitful result.
