Science Experiments Review Setup:

Ethics and Experiments Scott Desposato, 2015-12-22 For most of political science's history discussions about professional ethics had nothing to do with human subjects Professional ethics involved integrity in the classroom fair tenure and promotion rule and the careful avoidance of plagiarism As most research was observational there was little need for attention to how scholarly activities might directly affect the subjects of our work Times have changed The dramatic growth in the use of experiments in social science especially overseas is generating unexpected ethical controversies The purpose of this volume is to identify debate and propose practical solutions to the most critical of these new ethical issues A leading team of internationally distinguished political science scholars presents the first examination of the practical and ethical challenges of research with human subjects in social science and policy studies Part 1 examines contextual challenges provided by experiments conducted overseas questions of culture religion security and poverty Part 2 examines questions of legal constraints on research focusing on questions of foreign review of international experiments Part 3 tackles the critical issues in field experiments including deception and consent impact on elections and careers the boundaries of the public officials exemption and the use of partner organizations to avoid Institutional Review Board IRB review Part 4 considers strategies for the future including training and education IRB reform institutional changes and norm development Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1992

Science And Technology In Deep Underground Laboratories Aldo Ianni, Sean M. Paling, Carlos Peña Garay, Jeter Hall, 2024-12-31 Deep Underground Laboratories are multidisciplinary research infrastructures with a rock overburden that goes from a few hundred meters to a few kilometers Presently there are 13 laboratories in operation on three Continents North America Europe Asia Australia for a global excavation volume of order 10^6 m^3 New laboratories are being constructed proposed including a new one in South America The main reason to develop an underground infrastructure is related to operate in a less radioactive environment where in particular muons from cosmic rays are strongly suppressed This low background environment opens the possibility to search for very rare events such as low energy neutrino interactions dark matter direct detection and neutrinoless double beta decay These are crucial studies to enhance our understanding of the Universe In addition these special environments in which these infrastructures are located provide opportunities to carry out many and varied studies on geology geophysics biology and planetary exploration of significant interest and impact in both pure and applied science A number of technological challenges over the last decades have been faced by scientists working in these infrastructures As a consequence state of the art facilities are in operation in Underground Laboratories for radio purity assay ultra low temperature detectors quantum computing radon suppression and mitigation advanced machining and next generation gravitational wave detectors
