The RAF's Cross-Channel Offensive John Starkey, 2023-01-05 The story of the RAF and in particular Fighter Command during the Battle of Britain has been told many times It is a tale of the gallant pilots of The Few in their Hurricanes and Spitfires with the nation's back to the wall fighting off the Luftwaffe's airborne assault against enormous odds But the story of Fighter Command's operations immediately after the Battle of Britain is less well known Marshal of the Royal Air Force Hugh Montague Trenchard commanded the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War His policy then had been for his aircraft and men to be continually on the offensive always over the German lines taking the fight to the enemy After being promoted to command the RAF Trenchard retired in 1930 In November 1940 Trenchard showed up again at the Air Ministry and proposed that the RAF should Lean Towards France that it should go on the offensive The RAF would claimed Trenchard win the resulting battle of attrition One of the main outcomes of the RAF's new offensive stance was the introduction of the Circus sorties These were attacks undertaken by a small force of bombers with a powerful fighter escort They were intended to lure enemy fighters into the air so that they could be engaged by RAF fighters the primary objective being the destruction of Luftwaffe fighters followed by the protection of the bombers from attack A further development of the Circus missions were Ramrods Rhubarbs and Rodeos all of which were variations on the same theme A Ramrod was similar to a Circus though in this instance the primary objective was the destruction of the target the main role of the accompanying fighters being to protect the bombers from attack A Rhubarb was a small scale attack by fighters using cloud cover and or surprise the object of which was to destroy German aircraft in the air and or striking at ground targets while a Rodeo consisted of a fighter sweep over enemy territory with no bombers Drawing on official documents and archive material as well as accounts by many of those involved James Starkey reveals just how Trenchard s views won through and the RAF went on the offensive from late 1940 into 1941 Was it a failed strategy If so why was it not halted once the results began to be seen Jane's International Defense Review ,2007 The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces Hugo Meijer,Marco Wyss,2018 This volume provides the first geographically and thematically comprehensive study of the evolution and current state of the national security and defence policies strategies doctrines capabilities and military operations as well as the alliances and security partnerships of European armed forces History and Evolution of Aircraft Ahmed F. Eurofighter Typhoon ,2010 Eurofighter Typhoon Hugh Harkins,2003-06 All technical data in this volume has been written from information received from the manufacturers records for this and a previous volume for which thanks go to BAE SYSTEMS EADS Germany and its forebear MBB CASA Eurofighter GmbH Eurojet and ITP Sener the later providing details of EJ200 thrust vectoring developments Not since the legendary R J Mitchell s Supermarine Spitfire of the 1930 s or the ill fated BAC TSR 2 of the 1960 s has a military aircraft been so much in the Spotlight as Eurofighter Typhoon under its many guises over the last three decades Designed primarily as a multi role fighter to replace a number of combat aircraft types in the air forces of Germany Italy Spain and the United Kingdom Typhoon has metamorphosed into a world leading combat aircraft capable of meeting any current or near term adversary While the initial production batches were delivered with an air combat capability the aircraft was cleared as multi role capable by the RAF in 2008 Full operational capability scheduled for introduction with Tranche 3 will enable Typhoon to perform the full spectrum of air to air and air to surface mission

Conceived in the 1980 s Eurofighter was designed to Cold War requirements but emerged into a completely different military political environment that followed the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1992 The flexibility of the concept allowed the aircraft to absorb the changing military requirements resulting in an aircraft ideally suited to the missions for which it is being procured The program has been dogged with many problems both political and technical Political indecision and the complexities of a four nation consortium saw the program threatened with reductions and even cancellation Much blame was laid at Germany s door with suggestions that the program would have benefited from a German withdrawal However this is far too simplistic a view Germany s technological and financial contribution to the program has been considerable With the fall of the Berlin wall and the subsequent unification of East and West Germany Germany was handed the burden of financing the re unification an expense that none of the other three partner nations had to contend with The program survival was assured when the Eurofighter Consortium and the four partner governments in 1998 signed an umbrella contract for 620 aircraft The Eurofighter Typhoon production phase has been underway for more than a decade with the first two seat instrumented production aircraft flying for the first time in April 2002 The first two seat series production aircraft conducted its first flight in February 2003 with first deliveries to air forces of the four partner nations commencing in the second half of that year following four nation type acceptance in June 2003 All four countries had taken delivery of their initial two seat Tranche 1 Typhoons by the end of 2003 and the first instrumented production single seat Typhoon conducted its maiden flight on 27 February 2004 By late 2011 300 Typhoons had been delivered to six different customers Austria had become the first export customer when it took delivery of the first of 15 aircraft in 2007 Saudi Arabia ordered 72 Typhoons to replace its fleet of Panavia Tornados with the first two Typhoons being delivered in June 2009 The aircraft is described in detail as are its systems and weapons The development aircraft flight test program is covered comprehensively as is the follow on Instrumented Production Aircraft program and on toe series production and operational service Future developments cover the development of the Captor E Active Electronic Scanned Array which is planned for future production batches The developments of the thrust vector controlled Typhoon is covered including manufactures figures showing the benefits of such a system The volume is supported by appendices and a detailed chronology of the program
