The Miraculous Pitcher Hawthorne Nathaniel, 2016-10-18 The story of Baucis and Philemon This elderly poor but generous hearted couple invite two gods disguised as beggars to come into their cottage to rest and eat The gods keep asking that their bowls be replenished and the old couple become sad and embarrassed because they know the pitcher is empty But the gods show them otherwise No matter how often they pour from the pitcher it is always full The Miraculous Pitcher - Large Print Edition Nathaniel Hawthorne, 2020-12-03 One evening in times long ago old Philemon and his old wife Baucis sat at their cottage door enjoying the calm and beautiful sunset They had already eaten their frugal supper and intended now to spend a quiet hour or two before bedtime So they talked together about their garden and their cow and their bees and their grapevine which clambered over the cottage wall and on which the grapes were beginning to turn purple But the rude shouts of children and the fierce barking of dogs in the village near at hand grew louder and louder until at last it was hardly possible for Baucis and Philemon to hear each other speak Ah wife cried Philemon I fear some poor traveller is seeking hospitality among our neighbors yonder and instead of giving him food and lodging they have set their dogs at him as their custom is Well a day answered old Baucis I do wish our neighbors felt a little more kindness for their fellow creatures And only think of bringing up their children in this naughty way and patting them on the head when they fling stones at strangers Those children will never come to any good said Philemon shaking his white head To tell you the truth wife I should not wonder if some terrible thing were to happen to all the people in the village unless they mend their manners But as for you and me so long as Providence affords us a crust of bread let us be ready to give half to any poor homeless stranger that may come along and need it That s right husband said Baucis So we will These old folks you must know were quite poor and had to work pretty hard for a living Old Philemon toiled diligently in his garden while Baucis was always busy with her distaff or making a little butter and cheese with their cow s milk or doing one thing and another about the cottage Their food was seldom anything but bread milk and vegetables with sometimes a portion of honey from their beehive and now and then a bunch of grapes that had ripened against the cottage wall But they were two of the kindest old people in the world and would cheerfully have gone without their dinners any day rather than refuse a slice of their brown loaf a cup of new milk and a spoonful of honey to the weary traveller who might pause before their door They felt as if such guests had a sort of holiness and that they ought therefore to treat them better and more bountifully than their own selves Their cottage stood on a rising ground at some short distance from a village which lay in a hollow valley that was about half a mile in breadth This valley in past ages when the world was new had probably been the bed of a lake There fishes had glided to and fro in the depths and water weeds had grown along the margin and trees and hills had seen their reflected images in the broad and peaceful mirror But as the waters subsided men had cultivated the soil and built houses on it so that it was now a fertile spot and bore no traces of the ancient lake except a very small brook which meandered through the midst of the village and supplied the inhabitants with water The valley had been dry land so long that oaks had sprung up and grown great and high and perished with old age and been succeeded by others as tall and stately as the first Never was there a prettier or more fruitful valley The very sight of the plenty around them should have made the inhabitants kind and gentle and ready to show their gratitude to Providence by doing good to their fellow creatures The Miraculous Pitcher
