least that was the image fashioned by Canadian advertisers and retailers and especially the biggest department store of the time Eaton's. Katharine Rollwagen dives into consumer magazines, Eaton's archives and mail order catalogues to discover how the commercialized Canadian teenager was created. Packed with insights about how retailers and advertisers attempted to shape the look, bodies and behaviour of young Canadians, this is an intriguing look at the power of corporate actors to influence popular understandings of growing up. It also reveals the roots of the hyper consumerism common among young people today.
