Hunter, Salvo Pitruzzella, 2024 This second volume expands and develops the discussion on arts therapies begun in volume one on the field's relationship with children and young people's mental health demonstrating further contemporary research within international contexts The book responds to a resounding call to address children and young people's mental health It explores a unique mix of diverse arts modalities including art music dance expressive arts and drama creating opportunities for discourse and discussion of how the different arts therapies cohere and relate to each other Chapters are truly global in approach ranging from schools in India to children's hospices in the UK refugee transit camps in Greece and residential care programmes for LGBTQ youth in the United States Discussions from Greece Taiwan and innovative research from Israel Norway and Scotland are also featured with reference to diverse social political and cultural contexts Ultimately chapters prioritise the links between research theory and practice providing accessible and implication led dialogue on contemporary issues This book provides new insights into the expanding field of the arts therapies and will be of great interest to arts therapists as well as academics and students in the fields of arts therapies social work psychotherapy health psychology and education Art as Therapy with Children Edith Kramer, 1993 A classic in the field one which may have inspired many to become art therapists this eminently readable volume is ideal for acquainting students with some of the fundamental ideas in the field. Subjects such as a sense of identity, feelings of emptiness, interpretation of reality, ambivalence, aggression, defenses, sublimation, are discussed as Edith Kramer's eloquent words capture the interplay between child artwork therapist bringing to life the fast moving events in an artroom peopled by emotionally disturbed children. Kramer has a deep knowledge of psychoanalysis, skill, intuition as an artist, the humane love of a born teacher. In one reviewer's opinion, her book's discussion of sublimation, art defense, aggression, the role of the art therapist have not been surpassed by later volumes or other authors. Richly documented with case material abundantly illustrated, this book offers inspiration not only to fledgling clinicians but to any one working with children who wishes to understand how why art can have such a profound effect. Edith Kramer is a practicing artist, educator who has worked with disturbed, handicapped, normal children in a variety of settings. She is currently adjunct professor of art therapy at NYU.

Arts Therapies and the Mental Health of Children and Young People Uwe Herrmann (Art therapist), Margaret Hills, De Zárte, Heather M. Hunter, Salvo Pitruzzella, 2024. This second volume expands and develops the discussion on arts therapies begun in volume one on the field's relationship with children and young people's mental health, demonstrating further contemporary research within international contexts. The book responds to a resounding call to address children and young people's mental health. It explores a unique mix of diverse arts modalities including art, music, dance, expressive arts, and drama, creating opportunities for discourse and discussion of how the different arts therapies cohere and relate to each other. Chapters are truly global in approach, ranging from schools in India to children's hospices in the UK, refugee transit camps in Greece, and residential care programmes for LGBTQ youth in the United States. Discussions from Greece, Taiwan, and innovative research from Israel, Norway, and Scotland are also featured, with reference to diverse social, political, and cultural contexts. Ultimately, chapters prioritise the links between research, theory, and practice, providing accessible and implication-led dialogue on contemporary issues. This book provides new insights into the expanding field of the arts therapies and will be of great interest to arts therapists as well as academics and students in the fields of arts therapies, social work, psychotherapy, health psychology, and education.
