Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition. What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice, a lack of emphasis on theory and an exclusive reliance on the writing process. As its disciplinary status has grown, the field has become far more theoretical. Composition studies has expanded its focus, reconceptualized the writing process and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives. The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism, social construction, gender and genre which were largely unknown in 1965 now dominate discussion. This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies. The volume consists of 66 entries, each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories. While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements, very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist. Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories including key elements basic concepts and claims and information about seminal or particularly influential works It then reviews the theory's critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works The Essentials of Academic Writing Derek Soles,2005 Provides thorough coverage of the most important phases of academic writing from planning and research through revising and proofreading five carefully annotated academic essays by students and well known authors as models of narrative expository and argumentative writing and thirteen additional sample essays both student and professional and an engaging case study of a student research paper Short Takes Elizabeth Penfield,2001-06 This lively collection of fifty eight short readable essays provides useful models of the rhetorical modes Along with familiar names like Maya Angelou and Russell Baker the text features many new voices such as Bharati Mukherjee Humberto Fontova and Bjorn Skogquist Detailed chapter openers discuss the writing process and introduce each rhetorical mode headnotes for each essay give a brief biography of its author and explains its context The introductory section Freeze Frame establishes the reading and writing connection a concept reinforced throughout the text For those interested in improving their critical thinking reading and writing skills Writing Pre GED Series Raintree Steck-Vaughn Staff,Steck-Vaughn Company,1994 The Writer's Workplace John Scarry,Sandra Scarry,1996-08 The Active Writer Michael J.
