And how to Use it

TOSHIHARU TSUKAMOTO

When we walk on the streets of Tokyo we find amazingly small buildings between narrow, along reinforced roads and in the spaces between tracks and streets. Most of these buildings are already built, and therefore not spectacular in design, and they do not use the function of technology.

However, they attract us. It may be because their presence provides a visual effect, photo, and makes us feel relaxed. These shapes and forms that do not conform to styles and preferences, are attracting to our eyes. They have an unique effect with elements of fun without putting to emphasize anything such as small size, size and width.

That invisible presence reminds me of something I thought when we play it with all that they are the pets. We usually do not consider only of human beings. Various animals come into our lives as pets, and they are given spaces to live. It may be the size and the space, but playing with pets is a lot of fun. It is said that connecting with pets relieves many people psychologically. It is because they have a totally different existence from us other than us, fun, their, your children and your pets. This play is quite good for our mental health when pets are not subjects of direct competition to us, human beings. In other words, if these buildings standing in these spaces are to be considered human beings, small buildings standing with all their might in odd spaces would seem to be like pets in other spaces, due to the sense of distance from human beings and the sense of presence in memory. If we look this way, we are able to enjoy many different kinds of buildings, the length, we have decided to call small buildings, 'Pet Architecture'. (Note: But we consider this word forever) is born just to make life of small houses in Tokyo and bigger than Japanese, we allow the existence of pets in the people of buildings, as these are pets in the world of human beings.

By giving this title, we want to establish one new category in urban structures by giving them a certain name and not by negatively considering them as openings and tiny houses. I have tentatively talked about this concept to different people and, surprisingly found that many of them tell me about their 'My Pet Architecture' existing in their daily lives.
